DEMENTED GIRL RUNS AMUCK IN A CONSUL GENERAL'S OFFICE

OVERHAUL OF N.R.A. WITHIN A FORTNIGHT

DISSENSION RUMOUR PERSISTS.

GENERAL JOHNSON TO CONTINUE AS HEAD

Washington, Yesterday. President Roosevelt yesterday held separate conferences with the National Recovery Administrator, General Hugh Johnson, and the General Counsel of the N.R.A., Mr. Donald R. Richberg, who is also Director of the Industrial Emergency Council. The President afterwards announced that General Johnson is continuing as N. R. A. Administrator and that he had asked, regardless of differences, that new plans for reorganization of the N.R.A. be prepared within a fortnight, when President Roosevelt's experts put the plan into effect. General Johnson and Mr. Richberg agreed that this could be done.

It is emphatically announced that no break has occurred between them. Nevertheless, observers insist that there are definite indications of a conflict under the surface.

RIFT IS DENIED

Roosevelt Declares Business Healthy.

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD. (By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894, Received August 25, 12.31 p.m.)

Washington, Yesterday. President Roosevelt states that the present negotiations between the N.R.A. leaders are for the purpose of preparing a legislative programme and to make some N.R.A. features permanent. Therefore, until completed, the N.R.A. will function with the present set-up. General Johnson and Mr. Richberg met and shook hands. They denied a rift.

LITTLE THOUGHT FOR CITIZENS.

"THE GOD OF PROPERTY"

Washington, Yesterday.

President Roosevelt has informed pressmen that the newly-formed American Liberty League emphasised too much the protection of property and too little the protection of the average citizen.

The President quoted someone else as saying that the tenets of the League appeared to be "Love thy God, forget thy neighbour," the God they really meant being property. — Reuter.

SHANGHAI POPULATION SHOWS INCREASE

Shanghai, Yesterday. — Statistics of the Public Safety Bureau show that the population of Shanghai was 8,407,685 at the end of July, an increase of 4,937 over the figures for June. — Reuter.

Here is a new photograph of Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, former Minister of Education, who was named by President Wilhelm Miklas of Austria, to take over the government as Chancellor, succeeding Dr. Engelbert Dollfuss, who was slain in the attempted Nazi putsch.

FREAKISH GALE

BIRDS KILLED BY STORM

ENGLISH COAST TOWNS FLOODED.

London, Yesterday. All traffic and other outdoor activities in the south-east coast towns in England ceased during an unusual visitation to-day of a furious storm which blacked out the sky.

Roads were soon flooded and many houses were damaged by water. The streets of Deal were littered by birds killed by hailstones. — Reuter.

CROCKFORD'S ON FIRE

Bridge Players End Game In Street.

London, Yesterday. When a fire broke out at Crockford's Club early this morning, bridge players gathered up their cards and completed the rubbers in the street. Fire damaged the restaurant, bar and smoke-room of the famous Club, but the remainder of the building is intact. — Reuter.

LORD BARNBY ON WAY TO U.S.

Manchukuo Mission Head Sets Out.

London, Yesterday. The head of the Federation of British Industries Mission, Lord Barnby, left to-day for the United States to fulfil business appointments in Canada and elsewhere before joining the remainder of the Manchukuo mission at San Francisco. The latter leave on August 29. — Reuter.

NEW TERRITORIES MURDER

Married Woman Found Dead At Tong Kok.

Lam Ngo, a married woman of Ku Tung Village, Lok Ma Chow, was found murdered at about 9 p.m. last night at Tong Kok, near Ku Chung, New Territories. It is not yet known what arms were used.

No property was stolen and the assailant, who is yet unidentified, left in an unknown direction.

U.S. SILVER POLICY CRIPPLING CHINA

FORCED RISE IN PRICE A BLOW TO HER TRADE
DEFLATION DANGER STRESSED

LONDON, YESTERDAY. SINCE CONGRESS PASSED THE SILVER PURCHASE ACT IN MAY, THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT, BESIDES NATIONALISING DOMESTIC SUPPLIES, IS MAKING LARGE PURCHASES ABROAD WITH THE EFFECT OF FORCING UP THE PRICE OF SILVER AND FURTHER CRIPPLING CHINA'S CAPACITY TO SELL PRODUCTS ABROAD. STATES THE "TIMES" IN A LEADING ARTICLE. TO-DAY, ON THE DRAIN OF SILVER FROM CHINA.

As the interest of the United States in silver is of minor importance as compared with China's interest, it seems reasonable that the Chinese Government should have an influential voice in the measures designed to rise the price of silver.

SILVER RUSH IN SHANGHAI

RANPURA CARRIES RICH TREASURE.

SHIPMENT TO LONDON

The Shanghai "silver rush" started in earnest on Tuesday when the P. & O. s.s. Ranpura, which left Hong Kong yesterday, sailed for London with one of the largest single shipments ever to leave Shanghai as a consequence of the American nationalization move which is resulting in large exports of white metal from Shanghai.

Unusual banking activity was witnessed over that week-end in preparing the big shipment. Not for years had the banking districts been so crowded with grunting and heaving coolies carrying boxes and bars of the precious metal from packed vaults and storage places, piling them on trucks or carrying them across to waiting lighters.

DISAPPEARANCE OF SOLDIER

Military Policeman Leaves Post.

Private J. Coles, attached to the Royal Military Police, East Lancashire Regiment, disappeared when on duty on Friday night, and has not been heard of since. His period of duty was from 6 p.m. to midnight, and he was first missed at about 9.45 p.m. His greatcoat and tracheon were found in a latrine.

The military authorities are at present unable to explain his sudden disappearance.

The description of Coles is: Age, about 22, height, 5 feet 8 inches, slim build, wearing khaki uniform, long trousers, black socks and shoes, and wearing a forage cap. He may be wearing a leather armband bearing the initials R.M.P.

Economic dislocation carried to the point of driving China off the silver standard, or inflicting upon her violent deflation, would be a grave misfortune not only for China, but also for the exporters of the industrial West, the journal adds. — Reuter.

Sterling Depreciation Continues.

Paris, Yesterday. A fresh decline in sterling and the relative firmness of the American dollar indicate that London and Washington are each pursuing their individual monetary policy, as opposed to parallelism.

The continued fall in sterling means that the depreciating forces, especially the flight of capital from Great Britain are still working. Certain pessimism exists, not only in regard to sterling, but also because it is doubted whether, despite the denial of dollar devaluation by the United States Treasury Secretary, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, the United States will be able to hold the dollar at the present level.

There is a general opinion in London that the weakness is due to a strong Continental bear position in sterling aided by tourist expenditure and coupled with the fact that British banks have been exporting funds to Paris where short-term rates are more favourable.

SCOUT AND GUIDE RALLY AT MOUNTAIN LODGE

GOVERNOR EULOGISES WORK OF REV. WALDEGRAVE

OVER 600 local Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Wolf Cubs, and Brownies, representative of many nations, assembled at Mountain Lodge yesterday afternoon for the annual "At Home" given by the Chief Scout of Hong Kong, His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., K.B.E.

From 2 o'clock onwards the various troops made their way to the Peak, gathering at Mountain Lodge for the parade at 3 p.m. The arrival of His Excellency, accompanied by Lady Peel, President of the Girl Guide movement in Hong Kong, Lady Southorn, Girl Guide Commissioner, and the Rev. G. T. Waldegrave, Scout Commissioner, was the signal for a great outburst of cheering.

Following His Excellency's address, the assembly were entertained to tea.

BANDIT PURGE IN HUPEH

Young Marshal's Troops Successful.

Hankow, Yesterday. An official communique from Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang's headquarters states that Wu-chang and Taungyang, South Hupeh have been practically cleared of bandits as the result of fighting on August 16 and 17.

Fifty bandits were killed, 34 captured, and 26 guns captured. — Reuter.

LOCAL SHOWERS FORECAST FOR TO-DAY

Fair, with some local showers, and moderate south-east winds, was the weather forecast for to-day, as issued by the Royal Observatory last night. Pressure remains highest over the Pacific to the south-east of Bonins. A depression is moving eastward across S. Japan, and the depression over Tongking appears to be filling up.

H.E. the Governor, Sir William Peel, acknowledging the howls of the Brownies and Cubs at Mountain Lodge yesterday. In the picture are Lady Southorn, Captain Walker, A.D.C., the Rev. G. T. Waldegrave and the Rev. N. V. Halward. — (King's Studio).

Among those present were Mrs. G. Herklots, District Commissioner of Guides, Mrs. W. Phillips, Acting Secretary for Guides, Mrs. Longworth, Brown Owl of the Shameen Pack; Rev. N. V. Halward, Assistant Commissioner of Scouts, Mr. E. Cock, President of Hong Kong Scouts' Association, Mr. R. Dormer, District Commissioner, Messrs. A. S. Mitchell and G. S. Dunkley, Hon. Secretaries.

His Excellency welcomed those present on behalf of Lady Peel and himself and thanked them for "bringing the improvement in the weather," about which he had been so pessimistic. He hoped that they would enjoy themselves and that the various units would mix together.

"During the course of his speech His Excellency said: "It is necessary that I should strike one sad note. This is probably the last occasion of this kind that we shall have Mr. Waldegrave with us, as he is leaving next Tuesday. He has been in charge of the Scouts for some 13 years during which time the movement has made great progress."

"There were when he came here. If my figures are correct, the following troops: — 1 Sea Scout Troop, 8 Scouts Troops, 3 Cub Packs, and one Rover Troop. To-day there are two Sea Scouts Troops, Six Cub Packs, and Five Rover Troops."

"This progress speaks volumes for his work and he was quite rightly rewarded some years ago with the decoration of the Silver Wolf."

SHANGHAI INCIDENT

SENSATIONAL ENTRY CAUSES PANDEMONIUM

BLOOD-CURDLING WHOOP.

OVERPOWERED AFTER ONCE BREAKING LOOSE

Shanghai, Yesterday.

The sedate atmosphere of the United States Consulate-General here was rudely disturbed this morning when a demented Eurasian girl entered the passport office with a blood-curdling whoop and swept off everything from the counter and dashed into the shipping office where she was seized while officials held a consultation.

She broke loose, however, and uttering shriek after shriek, dashed into the office of the Consul-General, the office of the Clerk of the Court and then into the office, adjoining that of Judge Helmick and on to a balcony.

There she was seized by Mr. Arthur Petersen, Assistant Deputy United States Marshal, and was taken to the Central Police Station. — Reuter.

DIPLOMATS' VISIT TO CHINA.

Saito And Satoh Plan Wide Tour.

Tokyo, Yesterday. Mr. Satoh, Japanese Ambassador to France, and Mr. Saito, Japanese Ambassador to the United States, who are now here on furlough are leaving on September 9 for a three weeks' inspection tour in the so-called Manchukuo and China. The press states that they will see Marshal Chiang Kai-shek and other leaders at Nanking and Canton. — Reuter.

U.S.-CUBAN TRADE TREATY.

America Makes Sugar Tax Concession.

Washington, Yesterday. A reciprocal trade treaty between the United States and Cuba, has been signed and will operate from September 3 for three years.

Cuba makes substantial reductions in the duties of a variety of foodstuffs, textiles, machinery, motor-cars and iron and steel, while the United States reduces the duty on sugar, which is estimated to value U.S.$23,000,000 and also on rum and tobacco. — Reuter.

SHORT STORY.

GOD CAME RUNNING

By H. A. MANHOOD.

RETURNING jauntily home
 at dusk from the warehouse, the running drudgery of the day forgotten, an unexpected gift of a two-shilling piece safe in his fist, the boy in his happiness felt a sudden, overwhelming wrench of pity for the mumbly, aged blind man standing humbly on the chapel steps, and impulsively, in strange, momentary elation and generosity, he dropped the coin into the dry, dirty palm, watching the short fingers scrapple its edge and close tightly over it, swiftly, as if the coin had been the head of a driven nail.
 At once a mechanical gabble of thanks came from the ragged-bearded mouth:

"Thankee dearly, kind friend. I can't see you, but He can, and He will remember for me. God bless you for your goodness..."

The boy said nothing. The words were cold and meaningless, not what he had expected. Already he was regretting the impulse.
 Foolishly he had flung away the means of great comfort.

Dismayed he stood, tempted to snatch and run, to make weak excuses, plead that it was all a mistake, that he had thought it was a penny. But a passing policeman was eyeing him thoughtfully, suspecting some badger-trick, and he knew too, instinctively, that the blind man would not willingly surrender such treasure.

As he rocked miserably, un-decidedly, the smudgy blue eyes of the blind man wavered, lost their blank fixity and blinked with angry intelligence for an instant. Dumb-founded and afraid, the boy moved on helplessly down the street, a bitterness in his mouth and a dull, dragging pain in his mind, for he knew now quite surely that he had been deceived, that the man was not blind.

For several minutes he walked erratically, fists pounding, conceiving fearful punishments, wondering how to be revenged. Unable to forget the loss, he crossed the narrow, busy street, scouting slowly back, hopping into a shadowed doorway immediately opposite the chapel, watching intently, confused and strangely ashamed, but determined to prove the fraud for himself.

For a long time he stared, muttering angrily whenever a vehicle passed slowly between them, his outgrown clothes seeming to become steadily tighter. But the man was clever, old at the game, and not once did eyes switch in foxy understanding. Weakly the boy began to think that he had been mistaken, but when doubt was strongest a clock struck six and the man's head turned slowly towards the Rising Sun, a hundred yards away, and the boy jumped a bit, sure again, remembering that quick, cunning glance the boozey look of the eyes and the drowned grey whiskers about the ugly mouth.

He wouldn't be able to resist the Rising Sun for long, especially with so much cash in hand.

Angrily the boy imagined the florin sunk deep in the filthy pocket, its power of bright purchase gone and only misery ahead of
 it. He remembered clearly the circumstances of the gift, how the traveller, pleased with an opportunity word, had plucked it from a waistcoat pocket as if it had been reserved for just such an occasion.

They had laughed together, the boy for joy and the traveller in sheer good humour, and the coin itself had seemed bright and warm with a life of its own, pleased with its welcome.

Proudly the boy had carried it through the day, planning to spend it gaily but thriftily, to extract full value from every penny. Never before had he possessed so much in his own right. His wage was never more than ten shillings a week, and all was needed by his wise and patient mother to feed and clothe him now that his father was dead.
 Sometimes she found spongers for him, but it was impossible to spend it cheerfully, remembering the dreary earning of it.

But the florin had been different, marvellously unexpected. He had intended the purchase of an exciting meal for his mother and himself, a poke of sweets, hard and lasting, bright and chippy, a penny book and perhaps a seat in the cinema. Now it was all gone to waste. Why had he felt that way?
 He did not know more than that a warm swim of blood had raced through him, making the gift seem beautifully necessary. Not so almightly bad if it had done good, given strength to a pottor, but this Charley Poke was not blind at all or needy; he was just a damned, gabbling cheat, though it wasn't going to be easy to prove. Where was God that He permitted such dirty trickery?

As if ashamed, too, the sky had darkened into night and the street was bravely keeping up appearances with spidery tangles of light.
 Watching had become much less easy, for the chapel steps were recessed and unlighted, but the boy did not cease to stare.

As if unaware of light or shade,
 Charley Poke still stood and mumbled with a fine pretence of patience under affliction, anguished words breaking from him only at strangely opportune moments, as when a parson or a lady with a holy manner and obvious wealth drew level, the phrases being always the same:

"And God came running to ease their blindness, but I was not there. I am alone in darkness, and I must bear it till He cometh again.
 God made light, but I know it not.
 Praise be the Lord..."

Clever talk which undoubtedly made many thank God for His gifts to them and aroused pity for the unfortunate one, all kinds of women and a few elderly men pressing coins into the ready palm.
 But the boy was not impressed.
 He knew better, knew that the man's frequent glances towards the rising sun were not accidental.

Yet, knowing so much, he still did not know how he was to recover the florin or expose the fraud. If only he could stop the game altogether. Fiercely he pondered odd plans. Fireworks exploded suddenly or water squirted into the cunning, redvelvet face might do the trick, anger him into giving chase, though the possibility was small, he being much more likely to make capital out of the attack, win large sympathy by his complaints.

The boy shivered to think of his own fate if the plan miscarried and wondered if a quiet threat of exposure would force him to restore the coin. But, remembering that hard, knowledgeable glance, he knew that soft words would work no good.

For more than an hour he watched closely. Shutting his eyes he could still see the shabby, humped
 with the shiny brass plate, the thundering great stick in the left hand, the varnished bowler hat crowning the big, droopy-fleshed head, the ragged woollen scarf, red and black like a funeral, and the cupped right hand so quick to clutch at peace and dive into the dragging pocket. Swine! Catch him out when he moved though.
 Have to be careful of that stick in case he had a temper to match his looks. But the man was thorough and not easily outwitted.

When at last he made a hesitating move the boy backed deeper into the doorway, thinking he had been seen and that calamity would follow. Fearfully he watched the man take tighter hold of his stick and tap his way to the kerb, head straight and eyes fixed and blank.
 In the name of God he begged help in the crossing of the street and a path was made for him at once, a buzz of sympathy following him.

Safely across he moved to the wall, tapping steadily past the doorway in which the boy stood, counting loudly, feet dragging.
 The boy spat in his relief, tempted to give up the pursuit. Only the chink of the heavy pocket against the wall decided him and he followed warily, halting with the impostor at crossways, amused at the alacrity with which people sprang from his path, clear of the heavy swinging stick.

Beginning a new count Charley Poke edged round into a narrow, evil-smelling street, thrashing viciously with his stick to clear the way of gaming children. The children watched him go in puzzled, fearful silence, one who dared to shout rudely after him being instantly suppressed. Straggled-haired women, standing with folded arms in doorways, watched him with sympathetic nods, checking children as they swung on ropes slung between broken iron railings so that he might pass safely.

A girl wheeled a box-wood perambulator into the road to make way, shouting lusty warning to a

Fashion Demands Facial Make-Up

Complicated Hat Styles Prompts Emphasis.

Paris. It was be a wise woman who recognizes her own face, if she follows the dictates of beauticians here. They would have the physiognomy comply with the suggestions of the hat.

As you know, without undue emphasis from this department, the hat situation has become a jigsaw puzzle. You have a choice of the headgear from China, Castile, Mexico and the monasteries. What the purveyors of pulchritude believe, is that the face beneath these novel chapeaux should at least be in the atmosphere of its origin. Facial make-ups for the Coille cartwheel would be dusky, a slant to the eyes and an ivory finish to the skin.

Honolulu Helmets

In like manner would the faces of the Castilians and Mexicans be reproduced with powders and creams, crayons and lipsticks. The mystery of these masquerades would, in itself, become a bewitching fad, it is thought by those who have made early investigations into the possibilities of facial changes. There also are the Louis XIV models, Honolulu helmets dripping with soft seaweed, Postillion straws

LONG CHIFFON SCARVES

AN ORIGINAL EVENING GOWN

PARIS REVIVES STYLE FOR SUMMER AND EVENING

Paris. GIVE us time and enough rope and we all go back to our early loves in almost everything. Famous people become victims of this affection—and it really is an affliction rather than an affliction.

Take our extraordinary good friend, Captain Molyneux, whose fashion edicts are followed by devoted women the world over. At his shown here he has gone away back "Little Season" collection just being and led forth into the limelight of the "now" his early chiffon scarf loves that cross the throat in front and trail back in the breeze of spring and summer to the hem of the wispy garden party of evening frock.

He makes one change this time on two of these scarves—adds soft, fluffy, feathery to the body which gives them a little more chiffon and is a popular touch anyway, with feathers highly favoured.

He has gone back again to those wee narrow shoulder straps and gracefully curved oval, or U-shaped back and front décolletages.

An Original Evening Gown

His most original evening gown this time has a trim little tailored blouse of taffeta, floor-length skirt of white crepe, and adorable cape of taffeta matching the evening blouse. The effect is startling and tears the mind between thoughts of lunch at high noon in the shopping district and all the formality of evening.

WHITE AND CREAM SPORTS SOCKLETS.

WHITE and cream sports socklets are made in silk with decorative turnover tops embroidered in gay colours. These socklets are of the transparent type in fine silk or an open mesh with practical soles of fine thread or wool.

Other attractive designs in socklets are seen in pale pastel colours topped with a design in white.

MADGE EVANS' NOVEL MAKE-UP CLIP

NOW comes the make-up clip which Muriel Evans is wearing. It is a very smart enamel clip the size of a half-dollar which open to show a tiny receptacle to hold powder and dainty puff with a miniature mirror on its inner side to use in applying the make-up evenly.

DIANA WYNARD'S HAT.

DIANA Wynyard's three-in-one hat is the envy of all her fellow stars. Here's the idea. Two winged berets, one in black corded crepe, the other in white, may be worn as two separate hats. Then, for more formal occasions, Miss Wynyard slips over the beret a huge black brim that exactly fits the headsize, choosing either a black or a white crown as her costume demands and thereby having three hat changes in one.

STOCKINGS OF NEUTRAL BLUE-BROWN

MANY good shades of neutral blue-browns and greys in stockings are almost chameleon in their quality of interchangeable colour, in that they seem to take to themselves the main colour tint of the frock or costume with which they are worn.

MADGE EVANS' SWIMMING SUIT

MADGE Evans is usually one of the first in the movie colony to go swimming. She is seen at the beach these warmer days wearing a tweed bathing suit in black and white, with neckline and back straps of pure white. An ultra-smart effect and a type of bathing suit that is perfect for crisp sunny weather.

This Delicious Pudding Will Serve Eight People

And the cost is only a trifle over 2 cts. per person.

Desserts are sometimes considered an extravagance, but even the most frugal housewife could find no fault with the cost of this one. You will want to use Royal Baking Powder of course, just to be sure of perfect results. And now for the Cottage Pudding:

Mix ¼ cup shortening; and ½ cup sugar, adding sugar slowly, beating it well until blended. Add 1 unbroken egg, and ½ teaspoon vanilla extract. Beat until well blended.
Sift together 1½ cups pastry flour, 2½ teaspoons Royal Baking Powder, and ¼ teaspoon of salt. Add these alternately with ½ cup milk; mix well. Bake in well greased baking pan in moderate oven about 30 to 40 minutes. Serve warm with chocolate sauce. (See recipe below). Makes 8 servings.

CHOCOLATE SAUCE:

Mix ½ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon of cornstarch together; add ½ cup water slowly; and 1/3 cup honey or corn syrup and 1 square unsweetened chocolate; cook about 15 minutes, until slightly thickened. Add 1 tablespoonful of butter. Cool.

SUGGESTIONS:

Crushed fresh fruit may be substituted instead of the Chocolate Sauce, or you may cool and serve as a cake, with or without a frosting. Another way to serve this is to split the layers and put together with jam.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Style Of Coiffure Should Depend On Your Type.

"HOW shall I fix my hair so that I won't look like every one else?" One out of every five letters asks that question.

First of all, no smart woman should consider sacrificing a tasteful and flattering coiffure for one that is so "different" as to appear grotesque or conspicuous. Any girl likes to feel that her hair is a trifle out of the ordinary but she must stay within the realm of the dictates of fashion and consider her hair dress from a practical view-point.

The Average Women

Let's consider what can happen to the average woman with average hair. There's no use in telling her to dress it in a fashion meant to be worn only in hair style shows. Aside from the fact that such coiffures are too "different" to be flattering to anyone but an exotic stage beauty, they are, generally speaking, highly impractical. They won't withstand a hat nor a strong wind nor anything else for that matter. So the simple hair styles are best for anyone who leads an active life—at least for daytime anyway.

Wavy Hair

Most women look prettier when their hair is waved softly about their faces. However, if you are lucky enough to have classic features that need no softening touches, wear your hair straight and be glad that you don't have to bother getting it waved. But, such fortunate types are few and far between. For the average, wide, loose waves, brushed back smoothly from the face are easy to keep in place and usually are most becoming.

SUN-TAN STOCKINGS FOR SPORTWEAR

FOR the black or black and white ensemble worn by the older woman there are lovely stockings in pale grey, cool in tone, yet possessing a becoming pearliness in tint. Sun-tan bronze browns are worn with light frocks by the sports girl, and these shades are also useful for summer linen tweed costumes. With the more important darker-toned frocks in silk or printed fabrics stockings in a lighter tone are chosen, in keeping with the colour of the frock and shoes.

CRAIGENGOWER BEAT CHAMPIONS TO TAKE BOWLS LEADERSHIP

BENEFITS OF CYCLING TO CONSTITUTION

Senseless Scares Given New Wheelmen

REMARKABLE RECOVERY OF ONE-TIME INVALID

IN view of the considerable interest aroused in the Colony by the activities of the Hong Kong Cycling Club, the "Sunday Herald" is publishing a cycling article every week by J.E.S.E. with a view to assisting the beginner to avoid the pitfalls which await the novice rider.

(By J.E.S.E.)

While cycling is almost universally recognised as being one of the most healthy of sports, there are many who burden the ear of the new cyclist with the ill which follow participation in cycling, especially in races.

Grim tales of "cyclists' heart", cramped lungs, strained limbs, ruined digestions, and other things are told, usually with a grisly account of cyclists they have known who have been cut down in their prime.

The experienced wheelman, usually as fit as a fiddle, laughs as he discounts these tales, and points directly at the benefits to be derived from cycling. An enumeration of the ill which have been cured would almost sound like an advertisement for a patent medicine, but one case in particular could be cited of the marvellous effect of cycling on a broken man.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY

J. W. Rossiter, recognised as England's leading long-distance cyclist, and, until recently, holder of the Lands End to John o' Groats record, the 12-hour, and 24-hour records, was invalided out of the Army after the war as an incurable. Even now he has a defective hand on which he always wears a glove.

Steady training and constant cycling, however, put Rossiter on his feet again, and about 10 years ago he started setting up records which had, in many cases, stood since before the war.

What then of "cyclists' heart"—this, one would imagine is another form of the heart complaint which affects many athletes, and is caused chiefly through dropping cycling suddenly when at the peak of form.

With training, the heart becomes muscular and, as with any other muscular part of the body, activities cause these muscles to grow. A sudden cessation of activities causes these muscles to fatten with the consequent ill-effects.

In dropping riding the cyclist is advised to tone himself down from racing form to touring form, and then to gentle pottering, before putting his wheel aside.

TO AVOID ILLS

Indigestion is caused through an unsuitable position on the machine cramping the stomach. Too low handlebars, or a saddle too far back will cause this trouble, but a correct riding position will give the rider a "stomach like a horse."

Round shoulders are caused, not so much through low bars, as too much the shoulders back, as too narrow bars, which cramp the chest and cause a bowing of the shoulders.

Bars which are too upright, like those on the old-fashioned touring roadsters, are often far worse than dropped bars, causing the rider to bend his body when riding hard and adopt an unnaturally cramped position.

So, to the new cyclist, do not worry about your health. Watch the experienced rider and imitate his position on the machine. Do not ride hard too soon after meals, and, above all, do not start racing, or long distance riding, without proper preliminary training, as just as in any other form of sport, this gives the whole body a strain from which it might take many weeks to recover.

GLARE RESPONSIBLE FOR LOW SCORES

Rifle Club Shoot At Kowloon Tong.

J. Otley, scoring 86 points out of a possible 105, is leading the "B" Class monthly competition of the Hong Kong Rifle Club, as the result of yesterday's shoot at the Kowloon Tong range. He hit seven bullseyes, three at 200 yards and two each at the other ranges.

Owing to unusual glare Otley's shooting was not as accurate as usual, a factor which applied to H. W. G. Todd, who won the "D" Class competition last month with a score of 85—his score yesterday was only 70.

J. H. G. Parker is now leading the "D" Class with a score of 71 points.

Scores:—

CHINESE C. S. CLUB AQUATIC GALA

Interesting Programme For Next Saturday.

OPEN EVENT TO COLONY

The Chinese Civil Servants' Club will hold their third swimming gala of the season next Saturday evening at the Club's swimming beach, North Point.

An attractive programme has been arranged, two interesting events being those in which competitors will swim holding a lighted candle, and when contestants will try to thread needles on the move.

The following is the programme:—
150 metres, three styles (Open to the Colony).
100 metres (women's).
100 metres four styles (men's).
200 metres breast stroke (men's).
100 metres (men's).
50 metres (girl beginners).
50 metres (holding a candle).
100 metres (men's).
50 metres, threading the needle.

Two relay races in S.C.A.A. Carnival. Ten Events On Card For September 4.

An interesting programme, including several novelty events, has been drawn up by the South China Athletic Association for their third swimming gala on September 4, at the Association's bathing beach, North Point.

Included in the events are a three-legged 50 metres event, 50 metres' fat men's race, and catching the duck in the water. Keen interest will be shown in the two 200 metres three-style relay races.

The following is the programme:—
200 metres relay (men's) (three styles).
200 metres relay (women's) (three styles).
50 metres three-legged.
100 metres children's handicap.

POLICE DISAPPOINT

THE CRAIGENGOWER CRICKET CLUB "A" TOOK THE LEAD IN THE SENIOR DIVISION LAWN BOWLS LEAGUE YESTERDAY WHEN THEY DEFEATED THE CHAMPIONS, THE KOWLOON BOWLING GREEN CLUB, BY 62 SHOTS TO 58 ON THE KOWLOON GREEN.

Both teams now have 22 points in the League table, but Craigengower, with a match in hand and a superior shots average, command the leading position. Their other two teams also triumphed yesterday.

The Police Recreation Club, whose splendid recovery during the past four matches has been the feature of this season, surprisingly bowed to the Civil Service Cricket Club on their own ground by 79 shots to 46, while the Football Club provided the other major upset by beating the Recreio at King's Park.

THE INDIAN RECREATION CLUB, WITH A FURTHER WIN, ARE NOW ALMOST ASSURED OF THE JUNIOR TITLE, ALTHOUGH THE POLICE RECREATION CLUB, WHO WERE ALSO VICTORIOUS YESTERDAY, ARE STILL WELL IN THE RUNNING FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Five skips registered "sixes"—F. J. Jones, J. C. Brown, J. C. Chalmers, A. F. Paul, and L. A. Luck, and only the first two won their games. Down 19-8 on the 18th green Paul's four (J. K. Sloan, R. C. Butler, and G. T. Padgett) made a very fine recovery to come within two shots of A. R. Dallah's rink.

AT LAST... A PEN THAT WRITES 9 WAYS WITH ONE POINT...

EVERSHARP

HERE'S a pen that writes any way you want it to write... with One Point! A pen quickly adjustable for any kind of work: drawing, printing, ruling, interlineating, writing letters: you can even write music with it!

You've never seen a pen quite so unusual... quite so versatile as the new Adjustable Point Eversharp.
Here's one that does the work of nine by simply moving the uncanny little adjuster on the nib. Gives you a very fine line and very broad line... and seven in-between lines of graduated thickness.

The Eversharp Adjustable Point Pen is the only pen in the world that will meet every requirement of writing in any language.

LANCASHIRE'S ADVANTAGE NEED ONLY DRAW TO WIN TITLE

SUSSEX HOPES DASHED AT EASTBOURNE

YORKSHIRE'S AMAZING DECLINE

London, Yesterday.
LANCASHIRE, who enjoyed the best of the game against Sussex, their only challengers, at Eastbourne yesterday, require only to draw with Surrey, at the Oval to win the County Cricket Championship for the first time since 1930 and the eleventh time in the series dating back to 1873.
Sussex, 14 points in arrears, meet Yorkshire at Hove in their last game after their match against the Australians, which commenced to-day. Even should Surrey register a surprise win over Lancashire, Sussex will be faced with stern resistance from a Yorkshire team humbled by successive defeats at the hands of Essex and Gloucester, and with the honour of the North at stake.

Though Maurice Tate, who is still good enough to play for England, dismissed Lancashire for 196 in their first innings in the "needle" match at Hove on Wednesday, Sussex could only reply with 143.

Pearce bowled well during Lancashire's second innings, but his 5 for 61 did not prevent a total of 321 for 8. Faced with the task of scoring 375 to win Sussex compiled 126 for 2.

In the first innings wickets averaged 16.95 and in the second 44.701.
A hurricane century by B. H.
Lyon completely demoralised Yorkshire and the champions lost to Gloucester by 9 wickets, their second defeat in succession and their seventh of the season.

"Tich" Freeman secured six more victims towards his 200 wickets for the season, and Worcester bowed to Kent in a comparatively low scoring game.

Jack Hearne, the Middlesex veteran all-rounder, had the Surrey batmen puzzled with his slow-they may encounter the same difficulty to-day against Hopwoodand Middlesex won the "local derby" match by 9 wickets.

Results, as cabled by Reuter, were:—
At Eastbourne, Lancashire secured first innings points from Sussex.
Lancashire: 196 (Tate 6 for 50) and 321 for 8 dec. (Pearce 5 for 61).
Sussex: 143 and 126 for 2.

EARLIER RESULTS.

At Lord's, Middlesex beat Surrey
by 9 wickets.

Surrey: 155 (Smith 6 for 36) and 192 (Hearne 6 for 44).
Middlesex: 259 (Watts 6 for 59) and 89 for 1.

At Worcester, Kent beat Worcester by 4 wickets.

Worcester: 258 and 146 (Freeman 6
for 60).
Kent: 264 (Parks 5 for 67) and 141
for 6.

At Scarborough, Gloucester beat
Yorkshire by 9 wickets.

Gloucester: 348 (B. H. Lyon 125) and 58 for 1.
Yorkshire: 143 and 202.

At Bourne, Northants beat Hampshire by an innings and 98 runs.

Northants: 369.
Hants: 107 (Partridge 6 for 26).
164 (Cox 5 for 72).

At Nottingham, Leicester defeated Notts by an innings and 106 runs.

Leicester: 399 (Armstrong 117).
Notts: 158 (Marlow 6 for 68) and 135.

It visits rich and poor—high and low. It often comes when least expected. Hospitals have no "off season." Most physicians are over-worked.

Let us tell you about our

ALL Sickness and Accident Insurance Policy.

(Not only certain specified and unusual diseases)

The Policy provides indemnity for Accident, Loss of Life, Limbs, Sight, Thumb and Index Finger, Toes or Fingers, Dislocation of Joints, or Fractured Bones, and in addition, Hospital Expenses up to $500. It also covers Hospital and Surgical Expenses up to the same amount for other accidental injuries, not requiring hospitalization. Medical Expenses are covered to $50.00.

- 5) WILL NOT CRACK OR WARP WITH ORDINARY CARE.

FIGHTING WAR'S EVIL WEAPON

London's Defence Against Gas Attacks

Scientist Disagrees With The Pessimists

(By PROFESSOR J. B. S. HALDANE)

IT is great fun, as the Fat Boy in the "Pickwick Papers" know, to make other people's flesh creep. It is generally a harmless amusement. But not always. For aerial attack on London will be successful if it creates a panic on a large enough scale. And the panic-mongers who tell us that there is no defence against a gas attack, whether they want us to increase our air force, like Lord Halsbury, or to decrease it, like Mr. Beverley Nichols, are making things easier for our enemies.

Lord Halsbury gives three reasons for thinking that London is defenceless.

(1) He believes that chemists have invented a number of new gases more deadly than the old, and which cannot be stopped by respirators. This is very unlikely for a simple reason. A substance can only exist as a vapour if it consists of small molecules. Petrol and vaseline are made of the same atoms combined in similar ways, but petrol forms vapour while vaseline does not, because in it the atoms are combined in smaller molecules. Now almost all possible kinds of molecule small enough to vaporise at all easily have already been made, and it is very unlikely that any volatile compound much more deadly than "mustard gas" will ever be put together. Mustard gas was discovered in 1886, and nothing worse had been found between then and 1917, when the Germans used it.

New Smokes There will certainly be new smokes, consisting of particles of non-volatile substances. But a good gas-mask will filter off smoke particles, regardless of their chemical composition.

(2) Again, Lord Halsbury tells us that forty tons of gas, perfectly distributed, could produce a lethal concentration over most of London. Of course it could. And a thousand bullets perfectly distributed, could kill a battalion. But in spite of Blaise, they cannot be distributed perfectly. Nor can gas.

(3) His third argument is much more serious. Gas-proof shelters are not available in most houses, though his statement that cellars are worse than useless is quite incorrect. They can easily be made gas-proof, as dug-outs were during the war. Also, as he says, an untrained population could neither use gas-masks nor keep them in order.

Here is the real danger. No defensive scheme is likely to stop a strong air attack completely. The government is going to spend twenty million pounds on active air defence, and nothing at all, as far as we know, on passive defence. They have apparently fallen for the good old military fallacy that attack is the best form of defence, the fallacy which before the war armed our troops with lances instead of machine guns, and which during it lost half a million lives in useless offensives.

Expensive But Possible It would be expensive, but quite practicable, to insist on gas-proof shelters in all new houses, and to see that a gas-mask was available for every inhabitant of our great towns, and that they were trained to use them, while parents were also trained to protect their children.

Unfortunately, officers of the armed forces often labour under the delusion that most civilians are fools. We are not such fools as they think. The average man or woman learns to manage some machine; whether a loom, a car, a typewriter, or a sewing machine, which is much more complicated than a gasmask, and to keep it in order.

Individual protection against gas would require a special organisation. But it would cost a great deal less per year than our present

Air Force, and, unlike it, could not be regarded as a danger by any other nation.

It would have to grow gradually. But we could make a beginning by training the school children and the unemployed, and starting on a large-scale manufacture of masks. I may add, by the way, that I do not own shares in any firm which manufactures these articles.

One thing is certain. An anti-gas organisation could not be built up in a few months, any more than a navy or an air force. If it is going to be needed, it should be started now.

Two Alternatives

The Government has two alternatives. Either let it say that its experts believe that a gas attack is not a serious danger. In this case it will at least minimise the danger of a panic caused by a few dozen gas or smoke bombs.

Or if the danger is serious enough to justify the creation of 41 new air squadrons, let it show some trust in the people's intelligence by asking them to co-operate in their own defence.

For there is a defence against gas attack, and an effective one. In March 1918, the Germans fired 150,000 mustard gas shells into one area and only killed 250 men all of whom had taken off their masks too soon.

If, in a future war, it is found that in spite of colossal expenditure on airplanes the Government has preferred to devote its energies to regulating our dog racing rather than protecting us from gas, then I can predict the slogans which will be most popular among the survivors of a gas attack. Not "We hadn't enough planes," or even "Stop the war," but "Hang the Cabinet," and "Hang the brass-hats."

To conclude, either the menace of gas is a bogey, which I for one do not believe, or it is a reality. If it is a reality no amount of interceptor planes or anti-aircraft guns can afford us complete protection. Even if they could protect us now, they certainly will not do so in a few years, when bombers will be burning heavy oil in Diesel engines, and no longer liable to be brought down in flames by a single bullet.

Civilians are as valuable as soldiers, and should be given the same protection, namely, gas-masks. There is a defence, against gas. Are we going to use it?

Charged with entering the Colony without a valid passport, A. G. Drigin, a Rumanian from Budapest, was fined $100, in default two months' hard labour, and two months' imprisonment without an optional fine, by Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning.

Accused, who came from Canton, was arrested in Portland Street on Friday. Sergeant Mottram said that the Police were pressing the case and asked for a heavy penalty.

WAR DEPARTMENT ROBBED.

Alleged Theft Of Foodstuff.

Tsang Fat, a cook, and Tsang Yuk, an assistant cook, employed at the War Department, Devil's Peak, were charged before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning, with the theft of foodstuff, the property of the War Department.

The charge of receiving stolen goods was preferred against Tsang Yuk, who pleaded not guilty.

The case was remanded until Thursday morning, for hearing.

OPIUM SEIZURE

Married Woman
Fined $460.

Three charges of being in possession of two taels of prepared opium, seven taels of raw opium, and of keeping an opium diwan at No. 6 Tung Man Street, were preferred against Chan Sze, a married woman, before Mr. W. Thomson at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning.

Fines totalling $460, in default nine months' hard labour, were imposed.

GUARD YOUR HEALTH DURING CHANGING SEASONS

BRIGHT Autumn sunshine—sudden changes—cool evenings make tricky times for normal health. With changing seasons many people find health a problem. And Autumn usually brings its crop of attacks in the form of colds and sore throats. For quick relief from colds 'ASPRO' has fulfilled all claims made for it, and if taken according to the directions it not only quickly ends a cold—it smashes further developments in the form of influenza, and prevents many days laying up in bed. If taken as a gargle according to the direction on the leaflet in the packet 'ASPRO' gives astonishing relief in a very short while. The reason why 'ASPRO' is so valuable for colds, sore throats, and many conditions of illness is because, after ingestion in the system, it is a powerful germicide, and is anti-pyretic—anti-periodic, and anti-fermentative. 'ASPRO' does not harm the heart, and its standard of purity conforms to the British Pharmacopoeia, the guiding authority of the Medical Profession.

Stubborn Cold Goes — PROOF!

A Hamner Street,
Williamstown.

Dear Sir,
I thank you for your kind interest in directing me to the certain way to effect a cure to the nasty COLD with which I had been battling for three weeks, during which time I had tried so many other fail-safe remedies. On Thursday last I carried out your advice to the letter, and I could hardly believe the fact that on Saturday morning I woke up with no cold left, nor did I have the habit of doing. Although I have used 'ASPRO' with excellent results for years in relieving HEADACHES, I am sure that 'ASPRO' would break up a cold or the 'flu in 24 hours if the directions were properly observed. I have been conclusively proved. Yours faithfully,

Trade Handicaps.

ONE of the most useful services that our Trade Enquiry Commission could perform would be the collection of a body of evidence showing how trade is strangled by all manner of extra charges over and above the Customs Duties for which the trader can make provision in the price he quotes. There are, of course, Provincial levies on many kinds of goods. We may not like these;
but they have at least the show of regularity conferred by being embodied in an official proclamation. The discouraging feature of the present situation is that the system is so easy and popular that it is rapidly growing. The number of imposts is constantly increased, and bids fair to become universal. When we add the growth of the new monopolies, each of which is protected by a duty and by a super-imposed levy, there is no prospect of any decrease except through negotiation aiming at a national scheme that could at any rate secure uniformity and regularity. It is an absurdity that the Nanking Government should be able to obtain concessions on the basis of moderate duties when in reality a much larger payment has to be made before a sale can be effected. The history of the like negotiations is long and involved, and need not be reviewed once more. But clearly nothing is gained by a change of name if additional imposts come back in a worse form and revive the old exclusiveness.

We have no right to limit in any way the growth of domestic manufactures in China, and it should be made clear that that is not the object. So far as the coarser counts of textiles are concerned it appears probable that the Japanese victory over Lan-shire will not introduce more than a transition stage; the future will lie with the Chinese factories, and not in textile goods only.
The industries being established in Canton are a clear enough indication of which way the wind is blowing. But the strength of British industry is its versatility; one may admit that the boundless optimism of a Richard Cobden is out of date, and yet believe that what adds to the wealth of our customers will in the end benefit our own trade in one way or another. In this matter there would be room for co-operation by all the countries that send goods into China; and the Hong Kong interest would coincide with the international interest.

The more amount of the duties paid, though important enough, is only one item. If it could be arranged that all the necessary payments could be made at once and to the same official, the release from delays and arbitrary exactions would be a boon equal to a large reduction. No testimonial is required to the Chinese Mar-time Customs Service, whose reputation is world-wide for every sort of efficiency. It is quite a different story when officials who are less under supervision get a chance of exercising their discretion. The ways in which delivery of goods may be impeded are practically endless; it is merely a question of ingenuity. Everybody in Hong Kong knows a good deal more about this subject than he is willing to talk about; for after all a man looks after his own business first, and the difficulties do get surmounted somehow, and future contracts have to be considered. It is a subject that a public Commission should take in hand.

History is only too likely to repeat itself unless there is a still bigger reform which would guarantee access to Courts where the Reign of Law is recognised. The Vice-President of the Judicial Yuan is at the present time in England studying the working of the English Courts; and Mr. Tain Tsen could do much by securing publicity of Court proceedings and a system of appeals to an authority not subject to local influence. He is said to be much impressed with the Circuit system. The question of Extraterritoriality is only sleeping. We are working under a temporary arrangement which will lapse in eighteen months, and will then come up for revision. One would have more hope of a genuine improvement if the Nanking Government showed greater willingness to admit qualified Assessors to assist the Courts in dealing with suits involving foreign law and trading customs with which local judges can hardly be expected to be familiar. The Shanghai Mixed Court established in 1864 worked well enough, and the Assessor were only abolished four years ago for political motives. The result was that when it had become clear that the Court would not convict Chinese for violence in enforcing the boycott against Japanese goods. Japan interfered by force. Nor is it enough to arrive at a correct decision if the decisions are not enforced. In Shanghai the police under Municipal control did enforce writs; but they had to meet on many occasions discouragement and opposition. A big programme? Undoubtedly. The strands of the problem are inextricably interwoven.

A RIPE SCHOLAR.

THE death of the Bishop of Ripon removes one of those scholars of the old curriculum who grow fewer and less appreciated every year as the laboratory and the workshop supersede the lore of Erasmus and Colet. The list of his scholastic successes is almost meaningless to the man who has spent his youth in learning how to earn a livelihood and his manhood in earning it; but it is enough to say that the list guarantees not merely an exceptionally accurate memory but an instinctive appreciation for the most delicate nuances of words; a wide knowledge of "the best that has been thought and said in the world"—Matthew Arnold's definition of culture;—and though not necessarily a gift of original thought, at least a power of recognising it, and a habit of rejecting the specious and second rate. The Anglican Church has an honourable tradition of welcoming such men and giving them a safe retreat from which their mol-low wisdom could temper a hasty and unthinking generation. Would we be better off if their Deaneries and Bishoprics were occupied by hustlers like Arnold Bennett and H. G. Wells?

UNIVERSAL LANGUAGES.

WHATEVER Mr. Wells may say in his haste it remains true that modern European civilisation is but one reach of a continuous stream which has flowed from the Athens of Pericles and Socrates through the Rome of Caesar and Cicero; and any generation would be the poorer for not having at least some men who can trace the continuity and remind us of lessons learned by men in the upper reaches.
In the discussion on the validity of Anglican Orders the preparation of the English case was entrusted to Bishop Wordsworth—the beloved 'Jacky' of tutorial days,—and even the Vatican, while rejecting the argument, could not deny the elegance of the Latin. Any man in any country who has gone through the old curriculum can read statement and counterstatement with delight as well as comprehension; and yet people invent Volapuk and Esperanto and an 'Interlingua' that produces a kind of intellectual toothache. The curse of Babel is not to be exorcised by historians who write more than they read, and measure wisdom by tallies of a thousand words. What mankind wants just now is not more power over Nature, but more direction and restraint in the use of what we have.

THE PERFECT RASTIME.

THE fact that our trade statistics show a falling off of something like fifty per cent, in our exports and imports adds pathos to the metrical complaints of disappointed travellers in place goods of which we gave a specimen a couple of months ago. Under the circumstances we shall perhaps be forgiven if we give an other effort by the same bard, to which he gives the above title:—

Men rush about at Ruggar
And scuffle in the dirt;
They race round tracks on horseback
Or chase a bit of skirt.
The games of bowls and tennis
Breed big and hefty fans;
The hefty Isaac Waltons
Drug maggots out of cans.

REGULAR SERVICE IN SIGHT

(By Our Aviation Correspondent.)

FOR the past few weeks, except for a slight digression in the direction of Australia last week, I have dealt with aviation almost wholly as regards its effects on Hong Kong.
This week I propose to go farther afield and consider the question of the trans-Atlantic air service.

Ever since Brown and Alcock first flew the Atlantic, shortly after the War, the question of a regular service from Britain to America has been visualised, by enthusiasts, and this year it appears to be coming a step nearer an established fact.

The chief two factors in bringing it nearer are shared between England and America. America has produced a flying boat which can carry 40 people for 1,200 miles non-stop, and in England, Liverpool has been approved by the Air Ministry as a Customs aerodrome for the clearance of passengers and goods.

Henceforth Liverpool is an airport, and, in all probability, as it is the great shipping port for the trans-Atlantic trade, it might shortly become the great airport for the same trade.

The greatest difficulty encountered by such a service is to have a machine which has the necessary cruising range, with a sufficient margin of safety, and can,
in addition, carry sufficient passengers and mails to make the journey pay.

DO. X FAILURE
Any machine which would be at all risky on a trip of this nature would frighten away all but the hardest of passengers.

The German flying boat, DO.
X, built eight years ago, was constructed on too ambitious lines.
It's 12 engines certainly made for complete safety on the longest over-sea journey, while its amphibious hull permitted it to land on water if necessary, but, in order to fly the Atlantic the enormous amount of petrol required for its dozen motors precluded the carrying of any load at all.

Amazing scenes were witnessed trial of Lam Ling for the murder of Sapura Singh, an Indian constable, the so-called girl-wife of the accused being continually re-proved by Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith is different. It was built for Pan-American Airways for their run from New York to South America. It has only four engines, a cruising range of 1,200 miles, and accommodation for 40 passengers.

With six passengers it can travel non-stop for 2,500 miles. The machine is claimed to have a cruising speed of 150 miles per hour.

The trans-Atlantic route could easily be covered by such a machine. The journey would have to be done in three stages—from New York to Newfoundland, Newfoundland to Ireland, and from Ireland to Liverpool.

The longest hop, from Newfoundland to the coast of Galway, is about 1,800 miles, and a machine similar in design to the new Pan-American machines could easily be built to cover this distance safely.

HON. DR. R. H. KOTEWALL.

This is the fourth of the exclusive "Sunday Herald" series of sketches of leading Colony residents by Mr.
A. S. Konyo, the talented Hungarian artist.

DESCRIBED by many as one of the busiest men in the Colony
the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., LL.D., J.P., has had one of the most meteoric careers in the history of Hong Kong.

Leaving King's College at the age of 15, he entered the Government Service as a junior clerk and achieved, in 13 years, positions never before, or since, held by Chinese—Chief Clerk in the Colonial Secretary's Office and Chief Magistrate's Clerk.

Dr. Kotewall now holds one of the most influential business positions in the Colony, and is also a member of the Legislative Council. His career throughout has been characterised by the rapid advances, which have been just tributes to his genius. He was awarded the C.M.G., within three years of joining the Legislative Council, a thing almost unprecedented. He has also served for 11 years on the Council, his third term of office, sanctioned by His Majesty the King, being a very rare occurrence.

On many occasions Dr. Kotewall has come to the help of the Colony, his most outstanding moment in the history of Hong Kong being his invaluable aid in 1925 during the strike and boycott. For this great service he was awarded the C.M.G. His plans and schemes for raising the $30,000,000 loan, which saved the Colony several years ago has also been chronicled in the annals of the Crown Colony, his speech on the Council at the time being described by the "Sunday
Herald" as the "$30,000,000
Speech."

Not so conspicuous, but equally important, was what he achieved in re-establishing trade relations between Canton and Hong Kong in 1930.

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES. — No. 119.

The welcome break in the weather experienced on Saturday morning was as much appreciated by the birds as it was by us as an early morning stroll clearly showed. Golden Orioles seemed as common as sparrows and their cheerful if rather monotonous whistle "What are you doing, you?" sounded on all sides. "Drongos" flouted in the sunshine their sable plumage iridescent with a variety of reflected hues. Blue magpies, black and white magpies and magpie robins, crested and red-vented bulbuls, tits and tailor birds, all were doing their best to welcome, with cry and whistle, the advent of the sun.

Of the trees one at least was a mass of blossom. The species is a very common one called Mallotus cochinchinensis and is easily recognisable by its leaves, green above white or pale fawn below; when the wind blows this species can be recognised several hundred yards away by the white its up-turned foliage. One is reminded of an aspen or even more of a white poplar of the English hedgerow. The tree is unisexual i.e., one tree bears male flowers another female. The male tree is very attractive just now being, in many instances, completely covered with branched catkins-like inflorescences bearing innumerable, small, cream coloured flowers. They possess a delicate but very sweet and pleasant scent. The female tree is much less attractive now but later in the year, when the fruits are developing, it shows to better advantage.

There is a little climber, which more usually trails over the ground, which is in full fruit. The branches terminate in clusters, umbels, of bright orange fruits. Each is a curious berry irregular in shape and showing clearly a number of circular depressions. The plant is called Morinda umbellata and belongs to the Coffee family, Rubiaceae, so well represented in Hong Kong.

The Jack Fruit.
We continued our walk through the woods below the Malson de Nazareth and down to the sea. By the side of the path were the remains of a large fruit which appeared to be a Jack fruit and a little further down we found two large trees bearing a number of fruits. Recently we wrote about Artocarpus hypargyrea with fruits in colour resembling ripe apricots but larger and more irregular in shape; the Jack or Jak-fruit is the fruit of A. intergrifolia. Climbing up one of these trees was a woman in pursuit of a large and ripe fruit. The fruits may be as heavy as 40 lbs., one near the top of the tree appeared to be about 18 inches in length and must have weighed nearly two stones. A short conversation showed Chinese knew that the tree was of Malayan origin and also that the little crystals, called raphides, which are present in the outer layers of the fruit, can penetrate the skin and result in a rather unpleasant tingling sensation. It reminded us of an incident in Malaya when with a friend we indulged in a bombing match with portions of the over-ripe fruit of a wild Jack-fruit tree.

On our return we saw a meal in progress. Half a dozen men and boys were seated in a circle on the ground busily tearing to pieces a large jack-fruit. As each seed, enclosed in pulpy flesh, was disclosed it was speedily stripped of its flesh which was eaten and the seed discarded. The smell was akin to that of a ripe pineapple. This tree is not cultivated much in Hong Kong though there is at least one in the Botanic gardens and a few grown at Fanling.

SILK PARADISE PROSPERS

"Herald" Advertising Praised.

The Silk Paradise, the Colony's newest silk store, has, in the view of the management, already fully justified its opening, the volume of business in the wide variety of goods offered being far above expectations during depression times.

The proprietors' account for their success in two direct ways, firstly to the attractive display and name of the shop, and, secondly, to the widespread influence of their advertising in the Sunday Herald.

The interest created by these advertisements has been considerable, and the influx of business since their commencement very apparent.

The management at this early stage consider their turnover to be as good, if not superior, to that of any other silk store in the Colony.

MOONLIGHT PICNIC SEASON ENDS.

Perfect Night Provides Fitting Climax.

The sudden return of fine weather yesterday provided ideal conditions for the last moonlight bathing picnic of the Y.M.C.A. and the St. Andrew's Club.

Leaving in brilliant moonlight at about 8.30 p.m., both parties spent a very enjoyable evening.

BANDIT ATTACK REPULSED

100 Killed in Battle At Loongpo.

CANTON FORCES TRIUMPH

[From Our Own Correspondent] Canton, Yesterday.

For the second time within 10 days, the Communists in Southern Kiangsi launched an offensive on the Cantonese lines. According to a report received here last night from General Yu Hon-mou, commanding officer of the first column anti-Red forces, the enemy made an effort to attack the Cantonese position at Loongpo on August 22.

The attacking detachments consisted of the Communist Sixth Division and a guerrilla unit. They launched a heavy attack on the Cantonese forces, who called up reinforcements and eventually drove the attackers away. One hundred Reds were killed and 35 captured.

General Yu's report did not mention the casualties to his forces, but, entrenched behind barbed wires, trenches, and in dug-outs, the defenders probably suffered slight casualties.

It transpires that a similar attack was made by the Reds on another sector the day before, but they did not gain any ground, according to official reports.

TAX HARDSHIPS IN CANTON

Business Guilds Draft Petition.

READJUSTMENT NEEDED

[From Our Own Correspondent] Canton, Yesterday.

In view of the hardships caused by the business tax, numerous guilds have asked the City Chamber of Commerce to approach the Provincial Department of Finance for the readjustment of the tax in favour of the merchants.

A reduction of the tax is sought by the guilds, on the grounds of business depression. They point out that the tax was imposed during boom years, but on account of decreasing profits and even losses sustained by shops the scale of the tax should now be adjusted.

Another measure of reform recommended by the guilds is that no new registration should be necessary in the case of a shop which is taken over and managed by a son after the death of the father. The store goes on in succession according to family tradition, but there is no change of ownership in the usual Chinese lineage conception.

The guilds also ask for governmental leniency with respect to fines for certain tax defaults. In many instances, there are petitions for certain reforms, and during the intervening time no fine should be levied for failure to comply with the tax regulations pertaining to the issues under consideration.

It is learned that the Chamber of Commerce will accept these recommendations and will prepare a petition embodying the foregoing proposals to be submitted to the Provincial Department of Finance.

CONFUCIUS DAY

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION FOR TO-MORROW

Chefoo To Be Mecca Of Scholars.

SAGE BORN IN 551 B.C.

Chefoo, a port situated on the northern coast of the Province of Shantung, will to-morrow be the scene of a distinguished gathering of Chinese officials and scholars as well as pilgrims from all over China to pay homage to Confucius, China's greatest sage, who was born in this port 2,485 years ago and whose birthday will be commemorated to-morrow.

The Nanking Government will be fully represented by officials at the ceremonies, including Mr. Chu Min-yi, General Secretary of the Executive Yuan, Mr. Lui Chen, of the Ministry of Education, Mr. Yeh Chu-tsang, State Councilor of the National Government, and Mr. Yuan Liang, Mayor of Peking.

It is understood that this year's commemoration will be more widely and more enthusiastically celebrated than in any year since 1925. It is interesting to note that there is a general agitation for the revival of his teaching throughout China this year. While the Nanking Government is not lacking in support for this revival, the Kwangtung Provincial Government has already ordered his works to be re-edited for use in the schools at that province.

Holiday in Hong Kong

Chinese communities in all parts of the world will celebrate the anniversary. In China, schools and colleges will be closed, while in Hong Kong, Chinese schools, Maritime Customs and other Chinese Government Departments will also be on holiday.

Of noble descent, although his parents lived in poor circumstances, Confucius, or K'ung Fuzi, was born in the year 551 B.C.

His intelligence displayed in his early studies, placed him high above his fellow-students, and he later held government posts until the intrigues of his contemporaries caused his expulsion.

The teachings of Confucius were an attempt to develop a standard of morality, based on his interpretation of history, rather than the propounding of a new philosophy.

It is impossible to calculate his tremendous moral influence on the social and political life of China during the past 2,000 years.

MILITARY CHARITY TOMBOLA.

Attendance Of 500.

At a very successful military charity tombola last evening at the Garrison Lecture Hall, at which over 500 people were present, Messrs. J. Cready, J. James, R. Hoddith, E. Strong, W. Gullfoyle, T. O. Brown, H. Hold, S. Ikin, J. Clements, F. Dudley, D. Lucas, J. Crook, E. Gould, E. John and H. Griffin were among the major prize-winners.

CLOTH INDUSTRY PETITION

Canton Guild Submits Recovery Plan.

HIGHER TARIFFS URGED

[From Our Own Correspondent] Canton, Yesterday.

The Native Cloth Guild, in a "recovery" plan submitted to the City Chamber of Commerce, state that the burden of trade revival rests in a large measure on the Government authorities.

The scheme of the Native Cloth Guild suggests that the authorities should insist on all officials wearing clothes made of native materials. Students must also use native cloth for school uniforms. Once the lead is started by Government officials, the others will follow, the guild states.

In the opinion of the Guild, the Government should start an industrial and workers' bank to extend credit to the factories engaged in manufacturing such cloth, and grant loans.

At the same time the plan of the Guild proposes that the responsible authorities should build a high tariff wall to keep out foreign goods, while the export duty should be as low as possible. There should be no excises levied on this commodity during its infant stage.

On the part of the manufacturers, every effort must be made to improve the quality of native cloth, it concludes.

CHINESE STUDENTS FOR ENGLAND

26 Pass Through Colony On Ranpura.

TO COMPLETE TRAINING IN BRITISH SCHOOLS

Twenty-six Chinese students, including two women, on their way from Shanghai to England to complete their studies, passed through the Colony on the s.s. Ranpura, which sailed for Europe yesterday.

These students, whose training is provided for out of the Board of Trustees for the Administration of the Boxer Indemnity Funds remitted by the British Government, are all keen to enter on their period of three years' training.

They are the successful candidates out of some hundreds of Chinese students from all over China, who took part in a very stiff competitive examination. In England they will undergo training in schools and universities.

Over 200 Leave

More Chinese students have gone abroad for training this year than since 1931, the number now amounting to well over 200. Another party of 44 left Shanghai on the same day for America, on board the s.s. President Grant, while a week earlier 100 left on the President Hoover. A further party of 20 will leave to-day on the Empress of Canada, and on Saturday next another party will leave on the President Taft.

The majority of the students going to America will enter Michigan University.

Religion Can Never Be Killed
Recurring Catastrophes Survived

A Statement Challenged

(By the Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan.)

A few weeks ago, the Editor of one of the local papers, sent around a reporter to ask various individuals, representative of different walks of life in the community what their opinions were about religion. Amongst the printed replies was one that read as follows: "Religion is dead, personally I have no time for it."

Nobody bothers to whip a dead horse, nevertheless I propose to answer that challenge in this and following articles, because I am under no delusion that there are many others who think and say the same thing.

It is the opinion of one who has either, (1) given the matter the deepest possible consideration, weighed up the evidence on both sides with complete impartiality, and then been driven to a regrettable false conclusion, or (2), it is the opinion of one who knows nothing about it, intellectually or experimentally, and therefore whose opinion is not worth considering, or (3), it is the opinion of one who has made the wish the father of the thought.

It is by no means an original statement. We come across it first as the words of the Roman Emperor Diocletian, who even went so far as to strike a medal to commemorate that historic fact! He certainly did his best to kill it, by every kind of brutal persecution. Had he lived two hundred years later he would have found this "dead religion" the only accredited religion in the Roman Empire, and when later again the Empire itself was swept into oblivion under the onslaughts of the Goths and Huns and Vandals, there was one institution alone that survived those recurring catastrophes, and that was the Christian Church. Whatever of science or scholarship was intact was preserved, not in the laboratories, for there were none, but in the cells of the monasteries, and from the little flame that was kept alight scientists were able later to relight their larger torches.

Far from being dead, it spread across the world like a flame, bringing now hope to those whom a contemporary historian has left on record, were in the "abyss of despair". To-day its influence extends to every part of the world. Napoleon's Philosophy. Voltaire the French Atheist made a similar remark, and added that "within a hundred years it would have passed into history." Considerably more than a hundred years have passed, and the very house in which he lived is to-day the depot of the Geneva Bible Society. Our friend in Hong Kong and those who think like him find themselves at least in most excellent company.

In the year 1798 a ship called L'Orient, was carrying across the Mediterranean, some of the finest engineers and scientists of France. They were sailing as they hoped to the conquest of the East. One night as they sat on deck, the servants talked about religion. They said that while Egypt's religion had made its history, the religion itself was only myth and humbug. This was true of all religions. They had their uses during various phases of human development, but the time for them had long since passed. There was no God, and man had reached a point where they could dare to say so. Napoleon leaned back and smiled and listened. Finally he rose to leave them and as he did so he lifted his hand towards the stars. "Very ingenious, Messieurs," he said, "but who made all that?" As long as they live so long will Religion continue.

Science And Religion
Some few weeks ago in the leading article page of the Daily Express there appeared a paper written by one of the leading scientists of the day. In it he states that science and religion to-day are working hand in hand. No longer does one contradict the other, since every discovery in the realm of science only goes to prove that behind the Universe there is a mind and intelligence that can be nothing less than divine.

If you want to study Biology, or any other science you buy a textbook on the subject. There is one text-book, and one only on Christianity, and that is the Bible. All others are merely the ideas and thoughts of men. It is a remarkable fact that if religion is dead, this book is the world's best seller. Never less than a million copies are sold every year. It is translated into over 350 languages and dialects. Strange that the second best seller is also a book on religion, "The Imitation of Christ" by Thomas a Kempis.

Christianity In China
A fortnight ago, we observed in Hong Kong the centenary of the death of Robert Morrison, the first Protestant Missionary to China. He said before he died, that "if there were 1,000 Christians in China in a hundred years it would be a miracle." There are to-day over 200,000, and a Church that is alive and spreading month by month, in life and power and rapidly becoming self-supporting.

We have not heard lately of the closing of our Hospitals, Homes for incurables, and similar institutions. Why, if religion is dead? Why does not the Order of St. John of Jerusalem remove the Red Cross from its banners, and substitute something else? Because we owe these things to One who gave the command "Heal the sick and cleanse the leper." The Charter of our great London Hospitals, the first in the world of any size, are based solidly on Christianity. The same thing applies to our Universities in England and America.

Religion Can't Be Killed
We are so made that we have to worship something. It is part of our nature. From the dim dawn of time men have always had a God of some kind, whom they strove by sacrifice to appease. They built their altars and offered sacrifices. It was as much part of their lives as the instinct to eat and sleep. And the same thing applies to-day. What we think of most, that we worship. If it is not the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, then it is someone or something else. It may be gin, or racing, or golf or self in some form or other, but we have a God, whether we like to think about it or not. And it can be a pretty gruesome thought.

You can no more kill religion than you can stop the dawn of tomorrow morning. It is not religion that is dead, but those who make the statement—dead from the neck upwards!

ART EXHIBITION AT WANCHAI

Pictures That Were On View In Berlin.

MASTERPIECES BY LOCAL CHINESE ARTISTS

An art exhibition, consisting of 200 paintings by six local Chinese artists, Messrs. Ho Chat-yuen, Chiu Siu-ngong, Yung Sau-shek, Wong Siu-keung, Ip Siu-ping and Chau Yat-fung, is now being held at the Lee Garden, Wanchai.

Most of the pictures were exhibited at the recent Chinese Fine Art Exhibition in Berlin, Germany, but this is the first opportunity that local art-lovers have had of seeing the masterpieces.

All six artists were pupils of the late Mr. Ko Ki-fung, the well-known modern Chinese artist.

The exhibition, which was opened yesterday, will continued until Tuesday. The pictures are on view between 3 p.m. and 9 p.m. daily.

HEAVY FRANC BUYING BY GOLD BLOC

BRITAIN'S FIGHT AGAINST STERLING SLUMP

GOLD FLIGHT FROM AMERICA

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894, Received August 26, 9:57 a.m.)

New York, Yesterday.

There are signs and evidence that a virtual currency war broke out yesterday morning with France and Switzerland buying francs on a heavy scale, while the British Equalisation Fund intervened early in the forenoon and bought sterling to the value of £1,000,000.

The sharp rise in the London gold price corresponded with the slump in the value of sterling yesterday morning, which experts regard as a British move as a result of nationalisation of silver by the United States.

Other commentators suggest that depression of the pound sterling may have been designed to anticipate the mooted intention of President Roosevelt to further devalue the dollar. SOME WALL STREET AUTHORITIES BELIEVE THAT GREAT BRITAIN INTENDS TO REVALUE STERLING, CITING YESTERDAY'S LONDON GOLD PRICE OF 139/3 AND THE FURTHER WEAKNESS OF STERLING AGAINST THE FRENCH FRANC AS AN INDICATION. The export of gold from the United States is regarded as likely to increase unless the Government changes its silver policy. —United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

GOLD PRICE MAY BE RAISED

1,060,000 Dollar Export To Europe.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894, Received August 26, 10:11 a.m.)

New York, Yesterday.

American bankers yesterday announced that they are shipping an additional 1,060,000 gold dollars to Europe. Wall Street forecast that gold exports will reach large proportions and it is wondered whether the Treasury will be forced to raise the gold price. United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

PESO LINK WITH FRANC?

Dollar May Be Abandoned.

Washington, Yesterday.

Mexican financial publications are predicting that the peso will abandon the link with the dollar and adhere to the franc, due to inflationary interpretation of the United States silver policy. —United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

LOCAL DOLLAR STEADY.

Silver Prices Firm.

The local dollar remains steady, opening on demand yesterday morning at 1/6 1/4.

Spot and forward silver prices remain unchanged, closing prices of both being 21 9/16 on Friday.

The London on New York cross-rate, which closed on Thursday at £-U.S.$5.08 1/2, closed on Friday at £-U.S.$5.07 1/2, while the New York on London rate closed on Friday at £-U.S.$5.08 1/2, as compared with £-U.S.$5.08 1/2 on Thursday.

New York, Yesterday.—The Eastman Kodak Company, for the 24 weeks ended June 16, made a net profit of U.S. $3,745,676, as against U.S.$4,348,624 in the corresponding period of last year.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

Sharp Rise in Gold Price in London.

London, Yesterday.

The price of gold in London, yesterday rose sharply by 7 1/2 to 139/3d, per fine ounce, and is now only ninepence below the record high price touched on February 5, following President Roosevelt's announcement of the dollar devaluation plan.

Yesterday's price included a premium calculated at 2/3d. over the dollar and 7d. over the French franc.

The rise in price stimulated interest in South African mining shares on the stocks market and the prices strengthened.—British Wireless Service.

MONETARY GOLD STOCKS

New York, Yesterday.

The Federal Reserve has reported that the monetary gold stocks, during the week, increased by U.S.$4,000,000 while gold certificate reserves increased by U.S.$2,000,000, indicating that the Treasury is holding the balance.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

Impeding Advance Of Stock Market.

New York, Yesterday.

Wall Street believes that the confused international monetary situation is likely to impede the advance in the stock market. Favourable market factors yesterday were that automobile exports for the first six months of 1934 amounted to $109,902,707, against $43,021,205 last year, and that the lowest current offer for a seat on the Stock Exchange was $160,000, against the previous sale price of $95,000.

An unfavourable factor was the reported discord within the National Recovery Administration, including the rumoured dispute between General Hugh Johnson and the Secretary of Labour, Miss Frances Perkins.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

TREASURY BILLS ISSUE

London, Yesterday.

The amount applied for in tenders for the £30,000,000 Treasury bill this week was £59,320,000. The maximum amount was allotted in bills at three months. The average rate per cent. was 14/8, as compared with 15/6 a week ago.—British Wireless Service.

CUBAN TRADE TREATY

Reciprocal Agreement With America.

SUGAR TARIFF DECREASE

Washington, Yesterday.

The United States and Cuba have signed a reciprocal trade treaty which makes the sugar tariff 9/10ths of a cent per pound instead of 1 1/2 cents as long as it does not exceed the quota, and as long as the Jones-Costigan Act is effective.

Cuts in the tariffs of rum, foodstuffs, cigars, and tobacco are also made by the United States, while Cuba reduces the tariffs on foodstuffs, automobiles, machinery and manufactured goods.

Washington, Earlier. The Cuban Trade Treaty, which was promulgated last night, is expected to reduce the duty on Cuban sugar sharply. —United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

"BLUE EAGLE" WITHDRAWN FROM CHICAGO BUSES

Chicago, Yesterday. — The Chicago Bus Company has permitted the withdrawal of the "Blue Eagle" emblem of the N. R. A. declaring that it preferred to make the sacrifice rather than re-employ incompetent violators of the safety rules.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

GOVERNOR'S SON LEAVES COLONY Bound For Singapore.

Mr. W. J. Peel, the eldest son of His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., K.B.E., left yesterday morning for Singapore on the P. and O. liner Rampura, after a short holiday in Hong Kong.

Lady Peel and Mr. R. O. Peel were present on the ship to bid him farewell.

MR. W. A. DOWLEY RETIRES

Well-Known Hong Kong Figure Leaves Colony.

After 29 years in the Colony, Mr. Walter A. Dowley, a well-known Hong Kong figure, left for England, on retirement yesterday by the P. and O. liner Rampura.

Mr. Dowley came to Hong Kong from Singapore in 1905 as General Manager of the Vacuum Oil Company and left them eleven years later to establish his own business as an Exchange Broker. He had been in the employ of the Vacuum Oil Company in Singapore and Hong Kong for a quarter of a century.

He has been prominently identified with St. George's Society of which he is a past President, and with the Navy League. He was also a member of the General Committee of the Hong Kong Club.

He will spend his retirement at Burton-on-Sen, Hampshire.

NEW BETTING TAX AMENDMENT

An amendment to the Betting Ordinance of 1931, dated August 24, provides that on every bet made on any totalisator or pari-mutuel authorised by the Ordinance there shall be charged a duty on a scale to be determined from time to time by a resolution of the Legislative Council.

Hong Kong Personalities

For special services rendered to the Hong Kong University he was awarded an honorary LL.D., which was presented by Sir William Hornell, who paid glowing tribute to the work of Dr. Kotewall.

In a life, crowded with business, social, and charitable activities, Dr. Kotewall is able to find little time for recreation, but his hobby of literature, Chinese and English, is well-known. He has a wide knowledge of both languages, and some of his translations have been described as masterpieces of English. His library is recognised by many as the best in Hong Kong.

The author of several Chinese plays, Dr. Kotewall has also written part of a play in English, which he hopes to publish one day. His other hobbies include yachting, photography and, at one time, riding.

His keen interest in the sporting welfare of the Colony is evidenced by his many years of service as vice-president of the Hong Kong Football Association, the Swimming Association, and his activities in connection with the Chinese bathing beaches at North Point.

Among his other activities Dr. Kotewall is:

A member of the Legislative Council, representing the Chinese; he was formerly acting-member of the Executive Council; President, Boy Scouts Association; First President, League of Nations Society, Hong Kong Branch; Vice-President, and Former Chairman, Society for the Protection of Children; Patron, Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals; Vice-Patron, St. John's Ambulance Brigade; Vice-President, English Association, Hong Kong Branch; Executive Committee, Chinese General Chamber of Commerce; member, District Watch Committee; member, Advisory Board of Tung Wah Hospital; member, Alice Memorial and Affiliated Hospitals; Vice-Chairman, Po Leung Kuk; Vice-Chairman, Chinese

LEPROSY IN THE COLONY

Motion For Sanitary Board Meeting.

A motion that the Sanitary Board is of the opinion that, in the interests of public health, and on humane grounds, the whole problem of leprosy in the Colony should be reviewed by the Government, with a view to providing facilities for the segregation, treatment, and cure of lepers, with safeguards against preventing the abuse of such facilities by those who are not resident in the Colony will be brought up by Mr. M. K. Lo at the monthly meeting of the Sanitary Board on Tuesday.

Mr. Lo will also ask for information regarding the survey and report of the Malarialogist.

NEW UNOFFICIAL M.L.C.

Mr. Owen Hughes' Appointment.

The appointment of the Hon. Mr. John Owen Hughes to be a temporary Unofficial Member of the Legislative Council, in the place of the Hon. Sir Henry Pollock, Kt., K.C., LL.D., who is temporarily absent from the Colony, has been sanctioned by His Majesty the King.

Public Dispensaries Committee; member, Council and Court of the Hong Kong University; Chairman, Board of Control, Morrison Hall; (Formerly) Honorary Permanent Examiner to Chinese Language School of (British) General Chamber of Commerce.

NEW FORD V-8 TRUCK

Built for Hardest Truck Service!

Full-Floating Axle!

The new full-floating rear axle permits removal of the axle shaft without jacking up the wheels. The entire weight of the truck and load is supported by the axle housing, leaving the axle shaft entirely free to transmit power from the engine to the rear wheels.

STRONGER WHEELS

Newly designed, stronger, sturdier wheels with 5-inch and 6-inch rims. Inter-changeable with dual wheel equipment, are used.

SEMI-ELLIPTIC REAR SPRINGS.

Because of the true torque tube drive, no driving stresses are placed on the springs, permitting free-shocking at both ends. Front suspension is provided by a special heavy-duty transverse spring which gives the front axle free play under the chassis. Both front and rear Ford suspension reduces unsprung weight, and frame distortion is minimized.

NEW DESIGN BELL HOUSING.

The conical shaped differential housing is heavily ribbed and axle housings are materially strengthened, giving added support to the weight of the truck and load.

STRADDLE MOUNTED PINION.

Misalignment of the driving pinion is prevented by straddle mounting it between two heavy-duty roller bearings.

HEAVY DUTY FRAME.

The heavy, long frame is seven inches deep and is made of high carbon pressed steel with heavy webs and flanges. This entire frame is especially designed to stand up under the most severe punishment of load and road.

TORQUE TUBE DRIVE.

All Ford V-8 trucks and commercial cars feature the exclusive full torque tube drive that has no slip joints. In this type of drive, the vehicle is driven by a torque tube and radius rods, instead of through the rear springs. This system leaves the rear springs free to do just one job — to give adequate support to the body, and load, and cushion against road shocks.

DRIVE AND COUPLING SHAFT

Strength with low weight is obtained and full engine power transmitted smoothly at all speeds by means of a short tubular drive shaft between coupling shaft and rear axle.

HEAVY-DUTY TRANSMISSION.

The heavy-duty four-speed transmission of the new Ford V-8 truck has all forward speed gears running on roller and ball bearings, saving power, reducing wear, and prolonging life.

STEERING

Positive control of front wheels and easy steering are assured by the 17 to 1 ratio of the heavy-duty truck steering gear and allows a short turning radius. Worm-and-sector type steering is used.

V-8 Power!

The new Ford V-8 truck engine is designed to give the power and speed that modern haulage demands and give it efficiently and economically.

TRUCK RADIATOR

The radiator is a large tube and fin truck-type with three rows of tubes and closely spaced fins, giving ample cooling capacity under most severe conditions of load and weather.

"IDEAL COMMISSIONER"
"Mr. Waldegrave is an ideal Commissioner. He begins, if I may say so, with the stature of an ideal Church militant and has great human understanding, tact, and sympathy. He is very insistent on efficiency and that has mainly been responsible for the increase of the troops. If the troop has got to be allowed to exist it has got to be efficient."

"He is going home, deservedly, after all these years, but I am sure his thoughts will often be across the seas with you for whom he has done so much. I have been asked as Chief Scout to make a presentation from the scouts. In token of their affection and regard for him, and I have much pleasure in doing so. I hope he will be able to keep his eye on you with this very useful telescope."

"I take the opportunity of thanking him myself for the great work he has done in the Colony, and I wish him great happiness in his retirement."

ENGRAVED TELESCOPE

His Excellency then handed Mr. Waldegrave a handsome telescope on which was engraved:

"Presented to the Rev. G. T. Waldegrave, M.B.E., M.A., Colony Commissioner, Hong Kong Boy Scouts' Association as an inadequate token of his devoted services to the Scout Corps for 13 years in the Colony by the Council, Scouters, Scouts, and Cubs."

Lady Peel in a short speech said: "I have been asked to give you this 'Thanks' badge from the Brownies and Girl Guides, and I will just read what the accompanying illuminated address says:

"This 'Thanks' badge is presented to the Rev. G. T. Waldegrave, M.B.E., Commissioner Boy Scouts' Association of Hong Kong as a token of their warm appreciation of his unflinching support and help, and as a souvenir of the friendship existing between the Scout and Guide organisations in Hong Kong. Signed by Violet Peel (President), Bella Southern (Colony Commissioner), Evelyn Grist (Asst. Commissioner), Iris Herklotz (District Commissioner), Winifred Phillips (Hon. Secretary) and Dorothea Danby (Hon. Treasurer)."

In reply the Rev. Waldegrave said he could hardly find words to express his appreciation of everybody's tributes and gifts.

"SKIRTS ON ME SOMEWHERE"
"I don't know what they will think of me in England for wearing Girl Guide badge—they may think I have skirts on me somewhere," he said amid laughter.

Continuing, the Rev. Mr. Waldegrave said he wished to thank the subscribers to the draft with which he had also been presented, and said he would probably get a writing desk with it at home.

"I have had a tremendously jolly time in Hong Kong. This is a wonderfully fine place for scout-ing, though of course you can't go about chopping down trees."

anywhere. You can't do that in England, which is a very fine scouting country, too. I used to have a troop in a slum area there, and we had to walk three miles before we found a bit of grass and a tree to climb, and while we were marching through the streets the people used to shout 'Yah! Yah! Dirty knees... etc. (Laughter)."

"It was things like that which made scouting difficult, but which produced some very good scouts."

"I am glad there remains that close friendship between the two movements of scouts and guides... which is largely due to the efforts of Lady Southern. I hope the jubilee celebrations in May next will be a great success. Remember your promises. They may be tremendously hard to keep, but it is worth while, if only for their worth when you grow older."

AUTUMN LOOMS AHEAD

Activities Now Getting Under Way.

PREPARING FOR WINTER SEASON

The approach of autumn is heralded by several events scheduled to take place in Hong Kong early this week, and there are definite signs that the activities of the last quarter of the year are now getting under way.

The initial rehearsal of "Merrie England" by the Philharmonic Society, which takes place to-morrow night at the Cathedral Hall, is an indication that those who provide our entertainment are on the move, while the autumn and winter riding season looms ahead with a meeting of the Fanling Hunt on Tuesday.

To-day's activities are all of a summery nature, although the final of the Open Rinks Lawn Bowls Championship at the Craigengower Cricket Club points to the close of the season on the greens.

Continuing their defiance of the gloomy weather of the past week the Cycling Club will set off this morning for Shaukeuk on their weekly Club-run.

Holiday To-morrow

The birthday of Confucius to-morrow will provide lucky Customs Officials and students in Chinese schools and colleges with a holiday.

Further winter sports preparations will take place at the Football Association League Management's meeting to-morrow.

The growing strength of the T. H. movement in Hong Kong is evidenced by the social meeting to be held to-morrow, while on Tuesday a kindred body, the Rotary Club, will hold their weekly meeting.

HEART IN WRONG PLACE

Man With His Left Side "Hollow"

Izmir (Turkey).

All the vital organs of Ahmetoglu Hassan, a 34-year-old "outpatient" at the local municipal hospital, have been found to be in the wrong place.

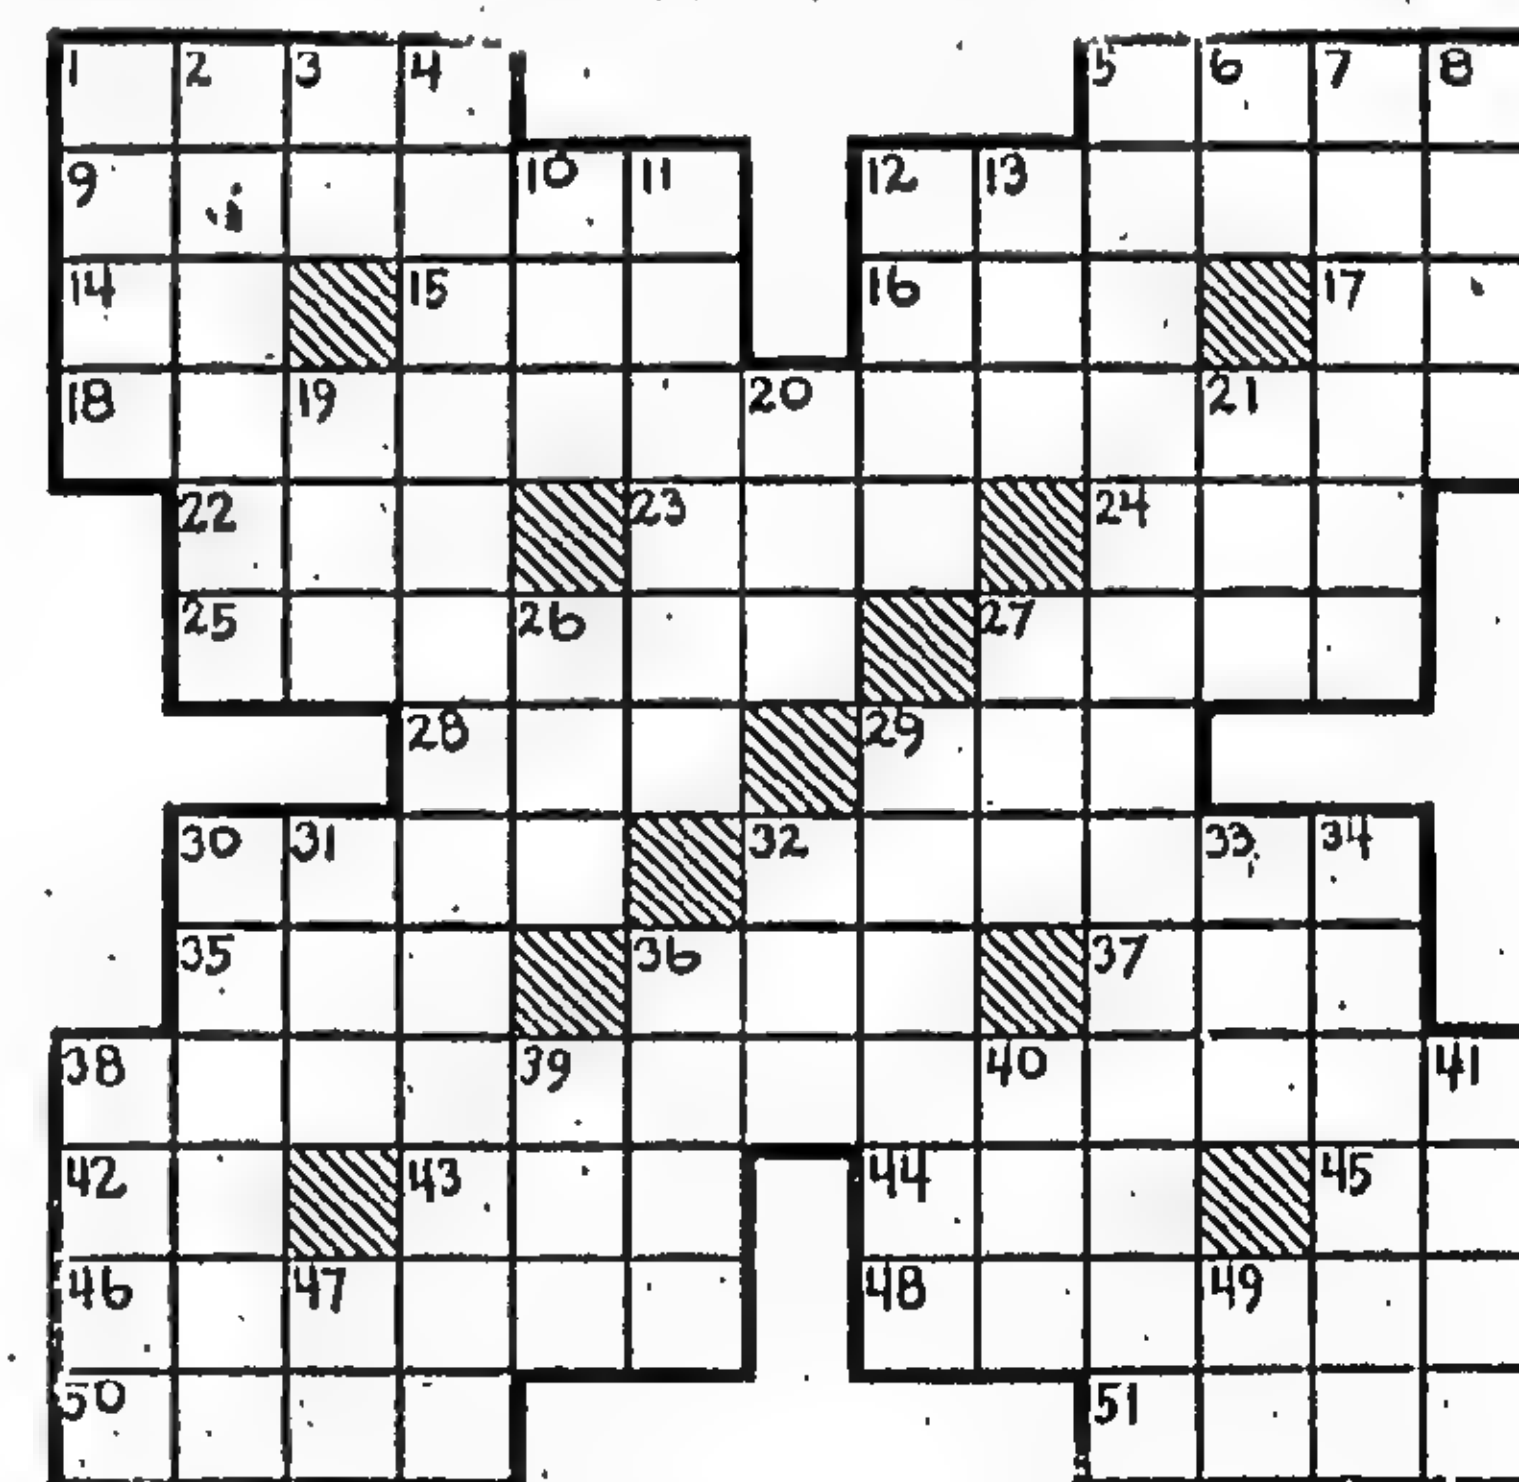

His heart, lungs and kidneys are all crowded together on the right side of his body, the left, as a doctor put it, being "hollow."

Hassan is quite normal in appearance and has always enjoyed good health. His peculiar conformation was only discovered when he was taken to hospital after an accident. — Reuter.

POSSIBLE WORLD CRUISERNew Yacht For Retired R.N. Captain.*SAFEST EVER BUILT IN SHANGHAI

Described as probably the strongest and safest craft of her type ever built in Shanghai, a small auxiliary yacht, to be called Deidre, is now under construction at the Shanghai Motor Works, for Capt. H. E. Hillman, R. N. (Retd.).

The craft is designed to, if necessary, sail round the world, and is a marvel of design and construction. Its overall length is 41 feet, its extreme beam 12 feet, and draught 6 feet, the total displacement tonnage being about 17 tons.

The hull has four watertight compartments, and all cabins, and below-deck space can be rendered absolutely water-tight.

The engine is an 18 B.H.P. Thorncroft Diesel, and can give a cruising speed of between five and six knots an hour, while the rigging is of the ketch type.

The steering cockpit, at the stern, is the only open compartment on the vessel, but, even if the weather is rough enough to fill it with water, it will not effect the stability of the ship.

CORRESPONDENCE
Concert Dates Clash.

To the Editor, the "Sunday Herald," Sir.—Mr. Bowes-Smith's action in his efforts to place a stranger from Shanghai in a piano recital at the Peninsula Hotel, on September 9, after my announcement of a concert on the same date for the Blind Home, etc., calls for very serious comment, and cannot be passed over.

I trust that my Concert will be allowed to take first place, for the sake of the good our music link is trying to do.

GERMANS MEET IN SHANGHAIConfidence In New President.*CABLE TO BERLIN

As in Hong Kong, where local Germans, including Mr. H. Gipperth, German Consul, went out to sea and board the German steamer Bremen to record their votes for Hitler on Sunday last, one of the largest gatherings of Germans Shanghai has ever seen assembled on Monday night and endorsed the despatch of a cable to Berlin conveying their sentiments.

About 1,000 assembled in the grounds of the German School in Great Western Road, which had been appropriately decorated with flags.

The meeting was fully representative, and was convened for the purpose of giving the community an opportunity to register their opinion on the plebiscite, which, owing to local conditions, could not be carried out.

It was found impossible for the Shanghai Germans to go out to ten to register their votes.

Lieut.-Col. H. Kriebel, German Consul-General, and other leaders of community were present. Mr. F. K. Hasenoorhl, Far Eastern Commissioner of the National Socialist Party, delivered a speech in which he expressed confidence in the future of Germany and asked the meeting to pledge their confidence in the new President.

7,838,295 CHINESE ARE NOW LIVING ABROAD

There are altogether 7,838,295 Chinese living in foreign countries, according to the latest statistics Affairs Commission. The great majority of them are in Siam, Malaya, Dutch East Indies, French Indo-China, Burma, the Philippine Islands come next in the number of Chinese immigrants. There are only three Chinese in Norway and two in Lithuania.

Trans-Atlantic Air Vision

of business transacted on the 25 per minute telephone between London and New York indicates that facilities for rapid communication between the two cities would be welcomed with open arms.

Taking approximately 24 hours for the journey, a business man could attend important business conferences in London and New York within two or three days of each other, while the value of traffic in mail matter alone should amply compensate for the outlay and running expenses.

The enterprise, of course, would require men of great courage, but Great Britain has those men when the time arrives, and, just as in 1840 Samuel Cunard sent the first Cunarder across the Atlantic, when the time arrives, a Briton will be found who will despatch the first regular air-mail service across those stormy waters.

GROWING POPULARITY

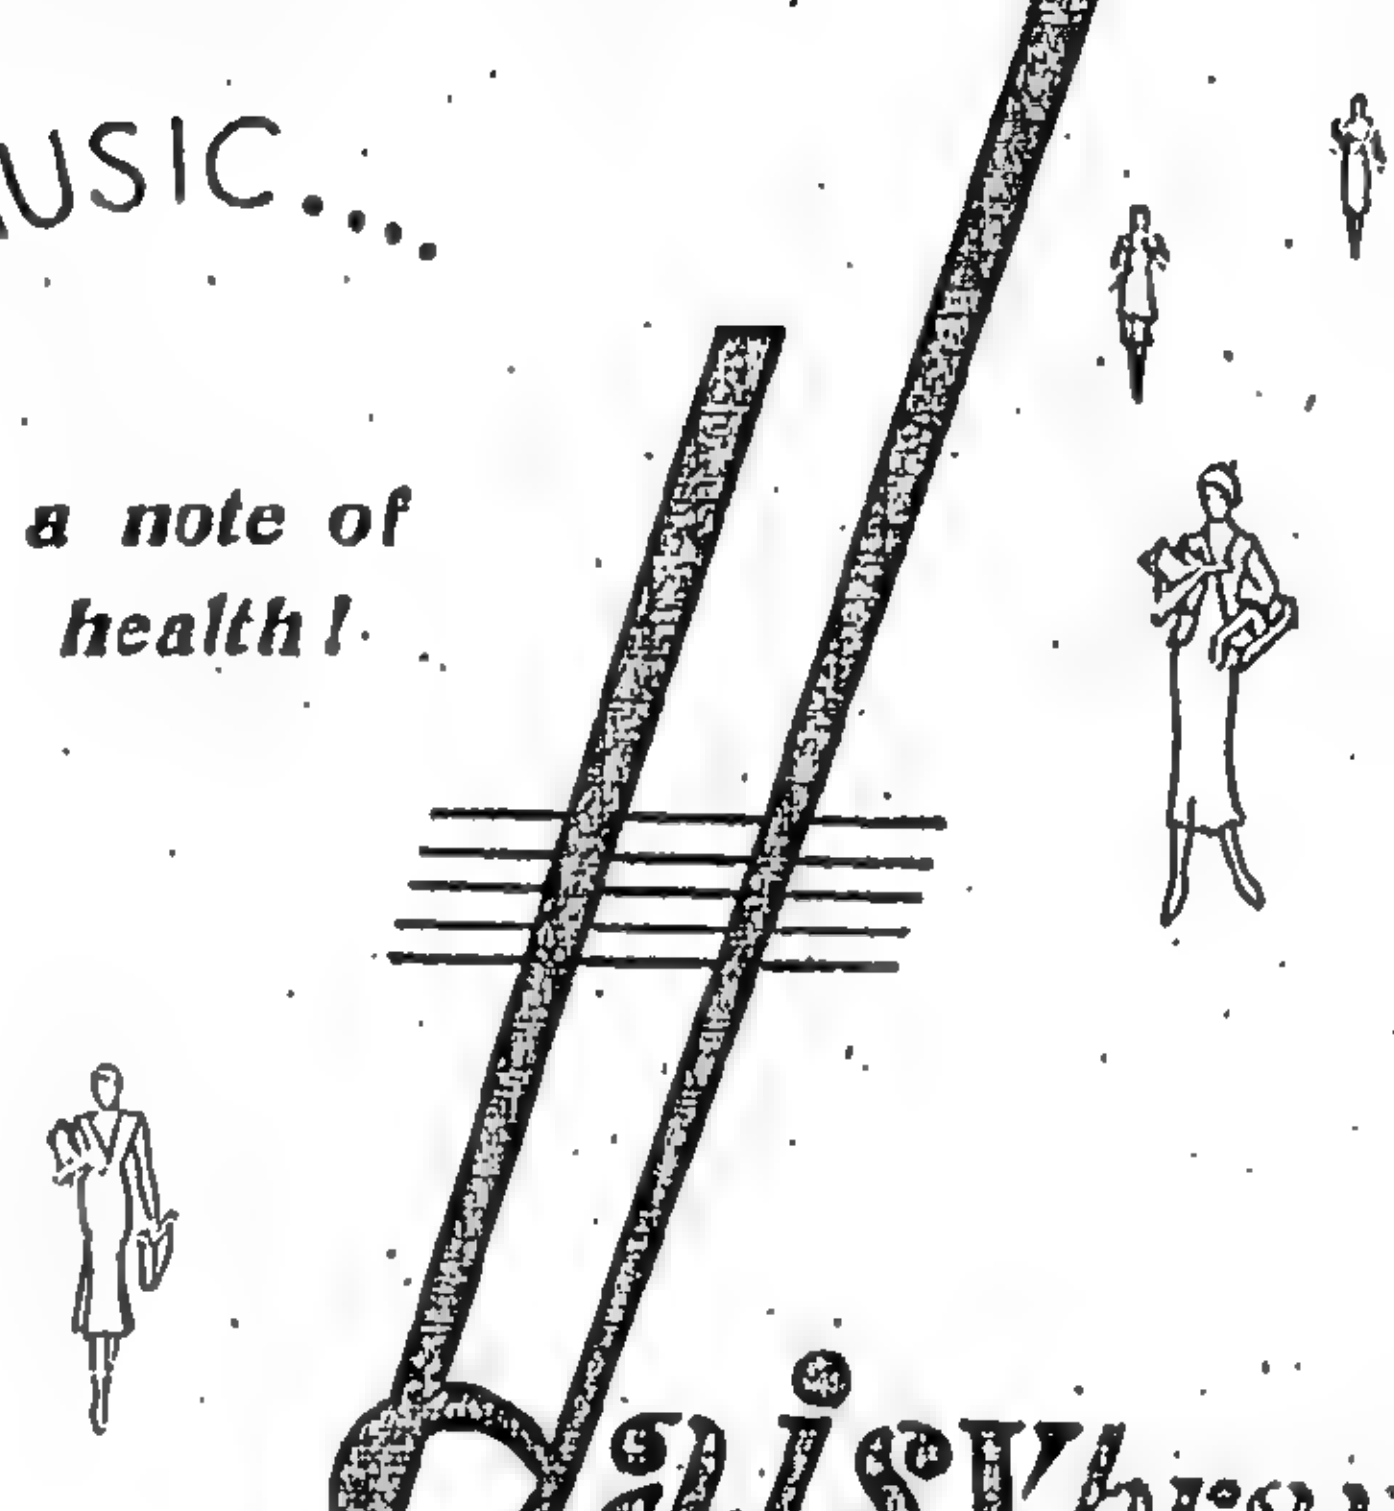

There is little doubt that air services are becoming more and more popular in Great Britain. It was only last year that the great railways, moving with the times, started air services to run in conjunction with their lines, and last week, the new air mails between Ireland, Manchester and London were inaugurated, perhaps not with the success one would have liked to have seen, severe storms besetting the first planes to take off.

To prove their efficiency, however, the lines kept in action the following day, in spite of a continuance of the rough weather.

With this attitude apparent at home there seems every prospect that the country will shortly be sufficiently air-minded to adopt the new service without fear of either financial or mechanical disaster.

8.	H. Ace	H.7	H.3	H. King
9.	S. Jack	D.5	7	S. Ace.

At this point West is squeezed. If he discards the ten of Diamonds, declarer makes three tricks in that suit in addition to the Queen of Hearts. If he discards the 8 of Hearts, Dummy's Queen and ten are good. If at trick 9 West leads a Diamond, South will win the King in Dummy, win the 10th trick in his own hand with his Ace, and then lead the Ace of Spades which will squeeze West as before. If West leads a Heart dummy wins with the Queen, declarer puts himself in with a Diamond and then leads Ace of Spades.

If at trick 3 East had led, as he well might, his Queen of Diamonds, the result would still have been the same.

N.B. In each of these Competition hands the original lead is that normally to be expected.

The only correct solution of both bidding and play was submitted by

UNIQUE CABARET ENTERTAINMENT

Empire Trio At The Hong Kong Hotel.

FURTHER APPEARANCES LIKELY

Unique entertainment was provided last night at the Roof Garden, Hong Kong Hotel, by the Empire Trio, comprised of Mae Baird, Archie Thomson, and Harry Simmons.

This talented trio, who hail from Australia, provided one of the brightest cabaret shows of the 1934 season, their burlesque and dancing turns being loudly applauded by the large crowd present.

The Empire Trio, who have come direct from Australia, will probably be seen again at the Hong Kong Hotel on September 8, when the management have made tentative arrangements for a programme in conjunction with Marty Sands and Mildred Dawn, who, it will be remembered, were one of the greatest successes last season at the Peninsula Hotel Room.

The engersness with which, last night's entertainment was anticipated was manifested by the fact that early in the afternoon every available table in the Roof Garden was booked.

EVA TIMING REDUCEDAMBER LIGHT MYSTERIES EXPLAINED*HIGH COST MYTH EXPOSED.*WHITE LINE INNOVATION

In spite of bitter criticism and outbursts by newspaper correspondents to do away with "Eva," Hong Kong's first Electro-matic Vehicle-Actuated traffic signal, has lived through her second week of existence, to say nothing of a drastic attempt by an unappreciating coolie to ruin her when he kept his bamboo pole out of a tram-car window while passing, early last week.

Hong Kong's motor traffic, however, has become quite accustomed to the peculiarities of this traffic robot and may be said, on the whole, to have realised the great benefits which "Eva" has to offer over the usual police-operated signals.

Traffic control has now definitely been improved and motor vehicles move much quicker and with more understanding than hitherto. Realising this, the authorities have already made a change to the "amber" light signal period, reducing it from 8 seconds to 3 seconds. "Eva," it was said, was operating at an experimental setting for the first week.

The prolonged pause, as mentioned in the Sunday Herald last week, is now much shorter and is followed by the "red" or "green" much quicker.

FURTHER REDUCED TIMING
Nor will it remain at this. As the traffic of the Colony becomes "educated" to this unique robot signal—it is the only one of its kind in the Far East—the period will be further reduced until, like London's busiest thoroughfares, the "amber" light will flash for a brief second, opening within the final period of the "red" signal before the green is shown.

In an interview with Mr. L. H. King, M.I.E.E., Chief Electrical Engineer, P.W.D., the Sunday Herald was yesterday informed that "Eva," since her commencement on August 14, has functioned perfectly and without mishap, "except for a brief period early last week when a coolie left his pole protruding from a tram window as it passed by," he said. This "collision" resulted in the lamps being deflected in the wrong direction, and they had to be screwed back into position.

The elimination of much undue horn tooting as a result of the feeling of security which "Eva" gives to motorists resulted in Mr. King remarking that he had offices in the Post Office building and had already noticed a big improvement.

HALF THE PRICE THOUGHT

Mr. King added that as far as he knew, "Eva" was the only robot signal of its kind which would be installed in the Colony for some time to come. Only one had been ordered, and this he said cost exactly half of the reputed price—$14,000. Actually, this sum was for two instruments, but only one was ordered. Thus the impression arose that "Eva" cost twice as much as she really did.

Mr. King said that the robot signal would become so popular in the future that any attempt to remove it would receive as much unkind criticism as was received when it was installed. "Eva" far exceeds the old "blinker" as a safer and more methodical form of traffic direction. She even excels the policeman on point duty, he said, adding with a smile, that the Wei-hei-wel police officer recognises only one form of traffic—a motor vehicle—rickshas, bicycles, and for General of Police, in a state of others must look for themselves in ment to the Sunday Herald yesterday's estimation, but "Eva" gives a day said that amendments to the "square deal" to all.

THE "AMBER LIGHT"

Much ambiguity of the ruling relating to the "amber" light still exists, Mr. King pointed out that the "Amber" light was "vital" to the functioning of the robot that at an early date contravened it provided a pause between the "red" and "green" signals thus avoiding any attempts to "beat the light" as done with the in London and other parts of England time signals as employed in other cities—Singapore, for example.

Without the amber light, the signal would flash from "green" to "red," giving the right of way to the other side of the road, thus resulting in a possible collision. If a motorist is about to cross the mouth of the road when the "green" switches to "amber" he may carry on in full confidence.

JURISDICTION DOUBTED IN U.S. TEXTILE STRIKEFEDERAL MEDIATION AID DECLINED.*FORMER INDECISIONS CITED

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894, Received August 25, 12.31 p.m.)

New York, Yesterday.

The Textile Union has rejected the Labour Relations Board offer of federal mediation in the strike dispute.

The Union said that it doubted the latter's jurisdiction and added that it lacked the confidence and ability to adjust the issues. "We would be unfaithful to our members who have suffered through the delays and indecision of the Board if we submit the crisis to the same Board," the union officials declare. —United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

Secret Instructions.Washington, Yesterday.

A special strike committee has formally instructed the textile workers to prepare to strike. It is said that secret instructions regarding the conduct and date of the strike will be sent by mail forthwith.

The need for discipline is emphasised, and the instructions say, "We have no more than 10 days for the perfection of the strike organization," indicating that the strike will probably be called on September 11. —United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

NEW WHITE LINES

White lines have now been laid down across the mouth of each road by the Traffic Department. The Traffic Inspector, Mr. C. F. Alexander informed the Sunday Herald that, regardless of any signal, the motorist may continue until the white line is reached, after which he must stop if the "red" light is showing. This means that after passing the contact strip there is no necessity to brake violently on seeing the "amber light" but to proceed, as it indicates, with caution, awaiting the next signal "red" or "green" which will follow almost immediately.

If, on the other hand, the "green" light turns to "amber" just as the white line is passed, the motorist may carry on—thus taking advantage of the amber light, which in such a case acts as a "clearing" light.

CAUTIONS BRAKE APPLIANCE
Motorists are warned to apply their brakes with caution. Much liberty is permitted in Hong Kong, but in a busy thoroughfare, as in London, the sudden application of the brakes would result in the car being rammed from the rear.

It was also mentioned that it was at night, rather than during the day, that the maximum benefit of "Eva" is felt by motor traffic. The light has been so arranged that the "green" signal will revert to Des Voeux Road after use, as this street has the busier traffic, including a continuous stream of trams. Thus at night, a solitary vehicle in Pedder Street will be given the right-of-way, almost immediately after connecting with the contact strip.

REGULATIONS UNDER CONSIDERATION

Mr. T. H. King, Deputy Inspector-General of Police, in a statement to the Sunday Herald yesterday said that amendments to the present traffic regulations for "Eva"—which was unknown when the present regulations were formulated—were now under consideration.

This may be interpreted to mean that the functioning of the robot that at an early date contravened it provided a pause between the "red" and "green" signals thus avoiding any attempts to "beat the light" as done with the in London and other parts of England time signals as employed in other cities—Singapore, for example.

MANCHUKUO MISSIONPRESS REPORT REFUTED AS INCORRECT*MISINTERPRETATION OF INTERVIEW.*NOT CONCERNED WITH POLITICS*London, Yesterday.

In a letter to the "Morning Post," in reference to an article therein quoting an interview in which he is reported by a London representative of a Japanese paper as having expressed certain opinions about the political relations of Great Britain with Japan and Manchukuo, Lord Barnby, leader of the British trade mission to Manchukuo states that he feels that some misunderstanding must have arisen in connection with the matter.

The mission which I have the honour to lead to Japan and Manchukuo is not concerned in any way with political questions, which are entirely outside its scope," he said. "Neither am I personally qualified to express an opinion on political questions affecting the relations of Great Britain with other countries."

"I feel it right to make this quite clear in order to avoid any misinterpretation of the objects of the mission which is proceeding to the Far East," he continued. "We are going there in an entirely unofficial capacity for business purposes, also in the hope of making friendly contact between the business communities of the respective countries."

MISSION LEAVES TO-DAY

The industrial mission under the leadership of Lord Barnby will leave London to-day for Manchukuo to study conditions there and to ascertain whether British industry can co-operate with local interests in its development.

No political significance attaches to the visit of the mission, whose four members have been closely associated with the conduct of the Federation of British Industries, which is the most powerful organisation of its kind in Great Britain—and which represents British industry in general.

The mission's programme includes a call of courtesy and goodwill in Japan, with the object of establishing friendly contact with the representative organisations of Japanese industry and commerce. The members of the mission will probably also take the opportunity of visiting some of the principal centres of Chinese trade.

The importance of establishing closer personal relations between the heads of industries in Britain and corresponding leaders abroad is generally recognised here, and was emphasised by the prominent industrialist, Sir Harry McGowan, on his return from the Far East some months ago.

Newspapers express the hope that the work of the present Mission may help to prepare the ground for more specialised intercourse later.—British Wireless Service.

The League, the formation of which was announced on Thursday, is a non-party organisation, though it is significant that Mr. A. E. Smith, former Democratic candidate for the Presidency, heads the list of sponsors.

According to Mr. Shouse, the League was formed to defend and uphold the constitution of the United States and will become a real factor towards recovery. The League will co-operate with the President in Congress in securing the passage of constructive legislation. The League will not participate in the November elections, but will oppose the "radical tendencies which have cropped up in various parts of the country."

brother who was watering the stricken plants of a window-box with spray from his mouth.

On, past the flat-faced, dingy dwellings, into a second street, a market-place, lined with coater-barrows and lit by spluttering jets and naphthalene flares. Several hawkers greeted Charley Poke in a humorous style and he answered in an immense, God-fearing voice, accepting a gift of cold fried fish from a rubicund old woman in a huge flowered hat who watched over her neat stall as if it were an altar.

Passing as beer-house he sniffed and hesitated, blinking a bit, eyes and mind unsettled by the manly reek, then stumbled prudently on into a quieter street of ware-houses, tapping and counting mechanically, turning suddenly into a gloomy, gateless stable yard, bumping his way between piled boxes to a ladder leading to a loft.

Grumblingly he climbed, pausing at the top to listen and stare down into the dimness before pushing open a door. Quietly he entered the loft, the door thumping shut behind him.

Discomfited, the boy crouched behind the piled boxes in the yard, nails scraping the soft wood, imagining a thieves' den with Charley Poke as leader. Nothing left to do. It was all so thoroughly convincing, yet he knew the man was a fraud. He watched for a light from the loft, but none appeared. A blind man had no need of light. If he was up there without a light he must be blind.

Easy to prove that much. Very cautiously he went to the ladder, climbing gingerly, fearful that the man would appear suddenly and throw him down. But he reached the top stage safely. Creeping beyond the door he listened, hearing at first only the pounding of his own heart.

Then, like the beginning of music, he heard the sound of shaken coins and a deep muttering. Light!... there must be light! Fervently he searched for a crack in the warped and scaly timbers, finding at last a knot-hole at breast level. But only darkness seemed to be within. Suspicious still he poked with a pencil and miraculously a faint light appeared, the pencil lifting the old canvas hung about the loft.

Awkwardly, for the hole was small and the stage narrow, the boy probed and peered, but for a moment he could see nothing. A change of angle, however, showed a candle placed in a side-turned bucket and, moving in the narrow wedge of light, he saw now the heavy head of Charley Poke, still wearing the varnished bowler hat. The boy gulped excitedly, for the foxy eyes were no longer fixed but were appraising a scatter of pence and silver upon a box, especially pleased with the florin among them. No pretence now! Look at the way he was salting the fish before sucking at it, picking out the bones! Now he was draining whisky from a small bottle and, after a thoughtful licking of lips, he picked up the florin, wrapping the scarf again about his thick neck, looking for the stick.

In panic the boy plunged for the ladder, scrambling down, thinking to hide, angry and afraid. The ladder moved under him and, safely down, a fine thought came to him. Hastily he strained at the ladder, sliding it a yard from its original position. Almost at once the door of the loft swung noisily and Charley Poke emerged, slanting the door behind him, turning, stepping confidently, anxious to be on his errand. A great astonished gasp and he fell clappingly like a wounded bat.

The boy waited in concealment but not a sound could be heard. Frightened now, but a little proud too, he crept towards the huddled shape, groping among the bits of glass near to the broken stick, finding the florin, pocketing it jubilantly for all its horrible wetness.

Confidence returning with possession of the coin, he quickly shuffled the ladder back into position, creeping merrily from the yard, chanting silently: "God came running! God came running!" running himself the moment he was clear of the street, pausing only to rub the coin bright so that it might better please his patient, waiting mother.

Interesting Nearer The Sun But Colder.

Why, when we are nearer the sun in the winter (which is true) are we colder?

It is because, though nearer, the earth has its axis tipped away from the sun, and so we up here in the north only get rays which, having gone obliquely through a screen of atmosphere, have much of their heat cut off.

The strange heliotrope light noticed at sunset—has not—been generally observed.

Sunset, however, can have curious lights in them when there have been volcanic eruptions, and for some considerable time after, for fine dust is thrown scores of miles into the air and may, as happened after the great eruption of Krakatoa, be carried right round the earth to dye the sunsets gorgeous colours.

WORLD PEACE FORESEEN

Senator Kellogg Thinks War Improbable.

CHAOS OF LAST CONFLICT NOT FORGOTTEN

Washington, D.C.

"I see no probability of another world war. Nations and peoples have come to their senses, and have not forgotten and will not soon forget the awful horror, misery and beastliness of the last conflict," said Mr. Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State and co-author of the Kellogg-Brand Treaty.

Commenting on the Senator's investigation into the manufacture of munitions, Mr. Kellogg said that the Committee was on the right trail at last and he predicted that "startling revelations" would result from the inquiry.

"There has been a lot of war-scare talk but we haven't war yet," he added. "Disarmament conferences may fall temporarily because statesmen cannot agree to terms, but that is not a defeat for Peace. Outlawry of war has to move slowly, because war has been an institution for thousands of years."

"But every year that passes without war brings the world closer to its ultimate, goal—universal peace."

Concluding, Mr. Kellogg said that he viewed with real gratification the anti-war pacts, conciliation and arbitration agreement and peace moves which have sprung up all over the world in recent years.—Reuter.

MOTERING NOTES

THE NEW V-8 FORD TRUCK Floating Rear Axle.

The principal features of the new Ford trucks include a new full-floating type rear axle and a number of changes made to make the V-8 engine especially suitable for truck work. The forward end of the truck has been re-styled and hub caps now carry the word "Ford" in script and the typical Ford oval is mounted on the hood sides for ready identification.

AXLE DESIGN

The new rear axle has been designed to meet the increasingly severe demands of present-day truck operation. It is more heavily constructed throughout than formerly with ample torque capacity to handle the full output of the V-8 engine under the most severe conditions. The pinion shaft is larger with larger bearings and the teeth on pinion and ring gear are wider than in the former 3/4 floating axle.

Provision has been made for positive lubrication to the pinion bearings. The centrifugal action of the ring gear pushes lubricant through a passage leading between the two taper pinion bearings. A similar duct acts as a return canal for the circulating lubricant.

A new design feature is embodied in the differential bearing housing. The taper roller bearings now are located equidistant from the centerline of the ring gear, thus providing equal distribution of stresses between the two bearings and equalizing bearing wear.

The axle is especially designed for use with dual tire equipment. The taper roller bearings in the wheels are located directly under the load centre when this equipment is mounted.

The driving flanges on the axle shafts are forged integral. Where the shafts slip into the differential side-gear 16 spline fittings are used with the shafts upset to eliminate localized stresses. The shafts are 1 1/2 inches in diameter, a substantial size for the full-floating type, since they are required to transmit driving forces only.

ENGINE FEATURES
The V-8 truck engine also utilizes new cast-iron cylinder heads with

GAS DRIVEN MOTOR LORRY.

Petrol As Emergency

A gas-driven lorry, by which the gas consumed is equal to petrol at 8d. a gallon, has recently been put into service at Normanton, according to "Motor Transport."

The gas is contained in six cylinders on the side of the chassis frame, and is stored at a pressure of 3,000 lb. per sq. in.

If the supply of gas runs out a change-over to petrol can be effected by a control in the driver's cab; but the chief fuel is gas, and petrol is used merely as an emergency alternative.

RED FLAG THEFTS

In New Zealand ordinary rectangular red flags have been used as temporary warning signals, many of these being supplied by the Automobile Association. So numerous have been the thefts of these flags, however, that the A.A. have had to produce a special type with a monogram on it, and notice has been given that anyone found with these flags in his possession will be prosecuted.

RUSSIAN FILLING STATIONS

The Soviet Union is planning to build a number of roadside filling stations and garages in the American manner. The first of these will be located on highways leading from Moscow.

which horsepower output is obtained equal to that of the former power-plant equipped with aluminum heads and single carburetor. The engine develops in excess of 80 h.p., approximately 6 h.p. more than that given for the former engine. A new combustion chamber shape for the cylinder heads permits obtaining a greater power output from a lower compression pressure, than heretofore. The compression ratio of the new iron heads is 5.92 to 1, giving a compression pressure of 109 lbs. per sq. in. at 2,500 r.p.m.

Pontiac Motor Company is equipping its dealers with a device that will enable them to make most convincing demonstrations of the easy riding virtues of the Kneec-Action seat. An air cushion is placed behind the passenger and, as the car rolls along, a stylus arm writes an honest record of the riding qualities. The reproduced graph "A" records the ride in the 1934 Kneec-Action Pontiac, while "B" shows a trip over the same rough roads in a car without this engineering improvement.

IMPROVE YOUR PLAY.

(By LADY RHODES)

Without wishing to set myself up as a "superior person," I cannot help remarking on the poor standard of play that prevails among the general run of card players.

This is not so true of bidding. Aided by one of various helpful systems, the bidding of the average player is distinctly good.

On the other hand, watching some not-very-good bridge the other day, I saw enough mistakes made in play to have accounted for several rubbers.

Here is an instance: North, holding:

S—A 7 4 2 D—A 6 2

H—A 6 5 C—K 10 2

opened with one No-Trump. Her partner, with:

S—K 5 3 D—K 10 3

H—Q J 3 2 C—A 5 4

rightly raised her to three.

Taking Unnecessary Risks

East opened with the Queen of Spades, West dropped the nine, and the declarer refused to win the trick. East continued with the Knave, on which the declarer played dummy's King and led and snatched the Queen of Hearts. East took the trick with a King and continued the Spade. The declarer was one down on her contract, being only able to make two tricks in each of the suits.

This sad result was entirely due to bad play of the Hearts. North could see from the start that the best, and almost the only, chance of making her contract was to pick up three tricks in that suit. Playing in the way she did, she made it certain that if either opponent held four Hearts she could only get two tricks.

She should have taken the second Spade trick with the Ace in her own hand, and then led the Ace of Hearts, followed by a small one. By playing this way she would have been certain of making three tricks in the suit, unless West had held four or more to the King, in which case she could not have made her three tricks, however she played.

Of course, if the opponents' Hearts had happened to lie three and three, it would not have mattered how she played the suit, but it is absurd to take unnecessary risks.

The opponents' hands were:

East

S—Q J 10 8 6 D—Q 7

H—K 7 C—J 8 7 3

West

S—9 D—J 9 8 5 4

H—10 9 8 4 C—Q 9 6

Curiously enough, in the same

JUSTICE PLAN FOR BLACKS

Scientist To Sit On Bench.

Canberra, F.C.T.

The jurist is to make way for the scientist in the administration of justice to Northern Territory aborigines. According to the plan of the Minister for the Interior, Mr. J. A. Perkins, a judicial officer will take over the oversight of aboriginal offences from the present courts and deal with them on principles understood by the blacks.

He will have some legal knowledge, but anthropology will be his chief qualification.

The system is to be elaborated by officers experienced in native administration and by the Attorney-General's Department. — Reuter.

rubber East and West also failed in a game contract. They had reached 4 Spades.

East held:

S—K Q J 7 6 2 D—J

H—A 10 2 C—K 6 3

Her partner's hand was:

S—8 6 D—K Q 10 9

H—6 5 4 3 C—A 7 4

South opened with the Queen of Clubs, which the declarer won with the King. She then led the King of Spades. South took it with the Ace and led the Knave of Clubs, taken by dummy's Ace. The declarer, after two more rounds of trumps, led the Knave of Diamonds, which North took with the Ace, and East, was two down on her contract, losing one Spade, two Hearts, one Diamond, and one Club.

She should have won the first trick with the King of Clubs and led the Knave of Diamonds, over-taking it with Dummy's Queen and continuing the suit if the Ace was not played, while still holding the Ace of Clubs in West's hand as re-entry on which to discard her losing Hearts.

The opponents' hands were:

South

S—A 3 D—8 7 5 3

H—9 8 7 C—Q J 10 8

North

S—10 9 4 D—A 6 4 2

H—K Q J C—9 5 2

and as the cards lay East could have made five odd, owing to a somewhat lucky distribution of the Diamonds.

A Higher Standard

I suggest that those readers who are keen on the game, and want to improve their standard, should devote at least as much attention to play as to bidding. There seems to be an idea that bidding is the most important feature of the game, but bidding and play are really of equal importance.

It is not a paradox to say that if two players are good and enterprising bidders, but not very skilled in the management of their cards, their bidding skill may be an actual handicap, as they will quite correctly reach contracts which they ought to make but cannot.

A. O. F. C. REPORT

The following New York market news was received last night through the American Oriental Finance Corporation:

London Forecast: Cotton prices are expected to be temporarily lower. Japanese houses are reported to be paying premium of 20 points for the new crop in Georgia for spot Cotton. This is without precedent, because they usually buy in the west. Wheat prices may possibly open higher, owing to the tightness of corn.

New York Office cable: Stocks: The market is slightly higher and fairly active with several large blocks done.

Cotton: Hedge selling is more pronounced this morning supplying trade demands at limits.

HEAVILY LADEN TRUCKS

The sight of one truck outside a bank in Nanking caused much high with white bars caused many a passer-by to stop to see this big transference of wealth, although most removal work was done at night time. Several banks were represented in the shipment.

It is reported that during the early part of the week silver exports exceeded $20,000,000, and that since the beginning of the year, and including the period since America nationalized silver, exports from Shanghai have reached a total of $90,000,000.

$15,000,000 EXPORTED
Last week exports of silver totalled about $15,000,000 but the Shanghai stocks were only slightly affected by these big exports because on August 16 the stock in Shanghai was $15,000,000 and $385,970,000, which is about twice the amount normally held in Shanghai.

Further shipments are expected in the near future in view of the assurance of Dr. H. H. Kung, Minister of Finance, that the Government is not contemplating the imposition of an embargo.

KWANGTUNG FINANCIAL CONDITIONS

INVESTIGATION BY NANKING.

DELEGATE IN CANTON

Canton, Yesterday.

An investigation of the financial conditions in Kwangtung is being made by Mr. Li Shing-yik, adviser to the Ministry of Finance in Nanking, who was sent here by the Finance Minister, Mr. H. H. Kung.

After studying the situation in Kwangtung, Mr. Li will proceed to Kwangsi and make a similar investigation there. His chief work, however, is in Canton, where he will remain for some time. At the recent National Financial Conference, held in Nanking, it was decided to unify national finance, meaning that all national revenues collected in the provinces would be remitted to the Ministry of Finance.

The amount of national revenues collected in Kwangtung is about $5,400,000 a month. This sum is retained here for military expenses and other uses. After paying all these expenses, there is a very small balance left, while in the early part of the year there was a deficit. In the circumstances, no national revenues are remitted to Nanking.

INCREASED SUBSIDY

On the other hand, the Central Authorities are granting $600,000 monthly to the South Route Anti-Communist Forces here. Owing to the Communist menace in Fukien, it is reported that this subsidy has been increased to $1,000,000 in order to encourage the southern forces to join in the drive against the Reds in Western Fukien and South-eastern Kwangsi.

Mr. Li Shing-yik has a thorough knowledge of the financial conditions of Kwangtung, being former Vice-Minister of Finance here. He has assisted Mr. T. V. Soong in increasing the revenue of this province when the Kuomintang government was first organised in Canton.

U.S. INCOME TAX ON FOREIGNERS

New York, Yesterday.—Brokers in New York fear that the Treasury drive to collect Income Taxes from foreigners will result in the loss of much stock-exchange business, estimating that between 10 and 25 per cent. of this business originates abroad.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

SHANGHAI AGAIN IN GRIP OF HEAT WAVE

Shanghai, Yesterday. Shanghaiers were today left gasping as the result of the second hottest day of the year. The temperature of 104 degrees fell only 0.4 short of the record on July 12.

No relief is in sight as the Sincere Observatory forecasts fine and hot weather for the next few days.—Reuter.

For over 60 consecutive days the shade temperature here has been over 97 degrees.—Reuter.

U.S. WHEAT CONTROL STATEMENT

775,000,000 Bushels In 1935 Confirmed.

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934, Reprinted August 25, 1934 a.m.)

Washington, Yesterday. The Agricultural Adjustment Administration has officially confirmed its wheat control statement and anticipates a 1935 harvest of 775,000,000 bushels. It estimates a carry-over of 185,000,000 bushels and a consumption of 625,000,000 bushels, leaving 275,000,000 bushels for export and carry-over to 1936.—United Press per S. E. Levy and Company.

It was announced on Friday that the Agricultural Adjustment Administration wanted a 750,000,000 bushel 1935 wheat crop, requiring the planting of a 90 per cent. base acreage or 5 per cent. more than in 1934.

AMERICAN MOTOR MERGER
